Hope Fades for Fliers Hours Overdue From Japan

CUTTERS PREPARE TO BEGIN SEARCH FOR MOYLE, ALLEN

SLIGHT HOPE SEEN IN FORCED LANDING

Although Plane Would Sink in Ocean, Descent on Island Might Prove Salvation of Lost Pair.

SEATTLE, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Coast guard cutters of the Bering sea patrol were being prepared tonight to start a search along the storm-scourged Aleutian Islands of southwestern Alaska for Don Moyle and C. A.
Allen, Japan-to-Seattle fliers, long overdue here.

An unofficial rumor that a huge monoplane had landed on a sparsely inhabited island along the northern British Columbia coast was being checked tonight by provincial police and Canadian newspapers, in the hope the machine might be that of Moyle and Allen.

At the request of W. W. Conner, governor for Washington of the National Aeronautical Association, Captain H. D. Hinckley, division commander of the coast guard, dispatched radio orders to eight vessels to search the north Pacific, the Bering sea and the Gulf of Alaska.

Captain Hinckley was frankly pessimistic. Experienced aviators, familiar with the sudden storms of the Aleutian region and the rocky islands bordering his gnom.

"It is an almost hopeless task," said Captain Hinckley. "We'll do the best we can—but I'm afraid that will not be enough."

The coast guard vessels to which the orders were sent included: The Northland, the Chela and the Itaska, in the Aleutian Islands district; the McClane, en route from Unalaska to San Francisco, and the Alert, in Ketchikan.

The most optimistic aviation experts agreed the fuel in the single motor monoplane in which the fliers risked their lives and their fortunes could not have lasted longer than about 48 hours, or until 3:30 p. m. (E. S. T.)
today, under the most favorable conditions.

Beach, 375 miles north of Tokyo, at 1:30 p. m. Monday, (E. S. T.). They expected to set their wheels on the island here in from 39 to 44 hours.

Neither flier had extensive experience as a navigator, and a slight miscalculation would have led them far from their course. Their margin of safety was only several hours. They carried no radio. If they landed in the water their plane was expected to float no longer than 35 minutes.

Only Life Preservers.
The fliers carried two emergency life preservers, but no other life saving equipment.

Last reported at Point Erino, Hok-kaido Island, 110 miles from Samushiro Beach, the fliers got off to a promising start.

Although numerous ships along the Seattle-Oriental route failed to report the plane and radio stations from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, onward also scanned the skies in vain, hope was not abandoned until the fuel supply was known to be exhausted. The most economical route the fliers could follow misses most of the ships and land wireless stations.

Miss Frances Bresson, fiancée of Moyle, who flew up from her home in Riverside, Cal., to greet the fliers, reluctantly left the airport this afternoon. She said she could no longer hope that the fliers would reach a goal in one flight, but was confident

PLANT DESTROYED IN $150,000 BLAZE

Vegetable Oil Concern's Local Factory Razed in Spectacular Fire.

(Picture on Page 5.)

Fire causing loss estimated at $150,000 destroyed the International Vegetable Oil Company's branch plant at 90 Milton avenue, S. E., Wednesday afternoon. Starting on the second floor from a dropped match, it is thought, flames fed by boiling lard and oil spread rapidly over the entire two-story brick building. Ten empty oil tank cars standing beside the plant were pushed to safety, but one wooden freight car, loaded with lard manufac-ured by the company, was destroyed.

R. T. Hancock, manager of the plant, who estimated the loss, said that the plant was fully insured through the main office in Memphis, Tenn. The blaze was first discovered by workers in nearby buildings. The 40 workers in the plant escaped without injury.

Two fire companies answered the call, but a third was summoned when the crankcase of one of the pumping engines burst at the height of the fire.
Several explosions rocked the walls of the burning building, endangering the lives of firemen. Numerous storage tanks in the rear were unharmed.
Only one of these tanks contained oil.
Linemen cut high-voltage electric wires to insure the safety of the firefighters and the thousands of people who gathered to watch the blaze.

The Atlanta Cotton Oil Company and the Southern Feed Stores building, which adjoin the vegetable oil plant, were saved by the efforts of the fire companies.

W. E. Chandler, cashier of the plant, said that he was able to save the records and other valuable papers by shutting the safe door. Nothing else was saved.

The exact amount of insurance carried was not known here, but the value of the entire branch plant, including some storage tanks in the rear which were not damaged, was estimated at $250,000. Whether or not the plant will be rebuilt, Mr. Hancock did not know. He said that he would communicate with L. P. Brown Jr., president of the company, before plans for the future could be announced.

Fellow High School Pupil

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Sept. 9.—
(AP)—The story of how he eloped to Cumberland, Md., with the 16-year-old daughter of a Fairmont metal worker was told to a society editor
here last night by John Champ Neely, 17, youngest son of United States Senator M. M. Neely.

Young Neely called at a local newspaper office and announced that he and Mary Kathryn Faust, a classmate in Fairmont High school, had eloped to Cumberland, Md., where they were married by the Rev. W. A.
Eisenberger at the First

Bring 8 Arrests, Big Rum Seizure

As the latest step in Assistant Solicitor General John H. Hudson's campaign to enforce the prohibition law in Georgia, he personally headed a raiding squad Wednesday night, which brought the arrest of eight alleged violators.

Pouncing without warning on what he termed a "speakeasy" at 131 Ellis street, Hudson and his aides arrested
Paul Jones, Peggy Sudan and W. C.
Holland, who gave the Ellis street number as their address; J. W. Sullivan, who said he lived at 133 Ellis street; James Harmon, giving his address as College Park, and H. M.
Wheeler, said to live at 504 Boulevard. They seized 1000 pounds of whisky and an extensive equipment for relabeling and rebottling liquor. Har-

RAISE IN TAX RATE IN FULTON COUNTY IS SEEN FOR 1932

Example of Other Counties in Lowering Assessments Likely To Be Followed.

With the warning that Fulton county next year probably will follow the example of practically every other Georgia county in lowering asessments and raising the tax rate, the Fulton county commission Wednesday afternoon adopted for 1931 the $1.10 rate which has prevailed for a long number of years.

The $1.10 rate is in addition to a special school levy of 75 cents on all property outside of the city limits of Atlanta. Members of the commission were told by Respass & Respass, county auditors, that the county's cash condition will be $100,000 better at the end of this year than at the end of 1930.

The 1931 tax rate is expected to produce $3,470,465.75. The county's estimated receipts for 1931 are $4, 102,248.44, and disbursements $4,105, 499.82. The deficit at the end of the year will be reduced from $70,004.53 for 1930 to $661,277.14 for 1931, the auditors reported.

Respass & Respass informed the commission that a rate of $1.3081 would clear the deficit this year, but the commission, advised by raising taxes, decided to continue the same tax levy as in former years and seek to eliminate the deficit through economy in operation.

Commissioner Paul S. Etheridge said that he will vote against all appropriations in the future except those that must be made under the law.
Commissioner Walter B. Stewart advocated an additional levy of five mills to aid in unemployment relief this winter, and warned the board that the county's cash condition will not be as good as it was at the end of the 1930 deficit, being involved in tax assessment litigation at the time, Stewart said.

problems with an actual loss in prop-

Atlanta Churches Vote To Aid Relief Work for Unemployed

Resolution Passed by Evangelical Ministers' Association As Result of Direct Plea Made by Roy LeCraw, New Chamber Head.

As the result of a direct, personal appeal by Roy LeCraw, president of the Chamber of Commerce and vice president of the Atlanta Community Chest, the Evangelical Ministers' Association has adopted unanimously a resolution to place the churches of this city in line with the administration of relief to the needy.

Closely following upon his appeal to the government for 250,000 bushels of wheat to feed the hungry of this city during the coming winter, the president of the Chamber of Commerce took directly to the ministers the proposal of rendering assistance through their respective congregations.

At a meeting at St. Philip's cathedral this week Mr. LeCraw said:
"The Christian churches of Atlanta seem to be losing ground. Attendance has decreased, interest has waned, apostasy is rife and everyone agrees that we need a spiritual revival."
In amplification of the foregoing statement, Mr. LeCraw added:
"The churches lost the strongest hold they have ever had on the hearts and imaginations of the people of Atlanta when they allowed the administration of charity to pass into the hands of social service, non-religious organizations who administer relief in the name of humanity and civic pride."

PRIMARY IS SET FOR OCTOBER 21

Committee Orders Strict Financial Accounting; Nepotism Prohibited.

Ordering a strict financial accounting of all future primaries, barring relatives of candidates and executive committee members as election managers or clerks, and taboos future
"trades" among candidates to prevent runovers, the city democratic committee Wednesday night set October 21 as the date for the 1931 primary in Atlanta, and voted to close entry lists at noon on Saturday, September 19.

Registration lists will be closed at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, September 21. Candidate fees were set as follows: Aldermen, $200; councilmen, $150; board of education members, $50; and executive committee members, $10. Aldermen Frank H.
Reynolds, of the eighth, and Ben T.
Huet, of the third, qualified.

Swinging into action with virtual unanimity of opinion, the committee enacted its election reforms, and called on council to pass an ordinance to bar workers from campaigning within 100 yards of the polls.

Dr. Samuel Green, chairman, was given a rising vote of confidence by the committee after Julian Boehm, who last year led a fight for a late primary, had praised him for his efforts to purge the primary "of any criticism and to insure clean and honest elections."

The committee head announced that there will be no school for election managers and clerks and that they will be instructed on how to handle an election before the primary date.
Boehm made the motion that the primary be held October 21 and it was passed unanimously, as well as the motions governing the closing dates of the entry and the registration lists.

Mrs. Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, sponsored the motion to require a financial statement to be filed by each candidate for the committee following the election "to keep down any possibility of criticism of the sub-committee." It was passed by a large vote.

Blast, 8 Miles Away, Rocks Texas City

CHAMBER PLANS TO ABSORB WORK OF TOURIST OFFICE

Merger Sought as Part of Reorganization; Resignation of B. S. Barker Accepted by Directors.

Rejuvenation of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce with injections of young blood and reorganization of the civil service scheme of the city through bringing back to the chamber the tourist and convention bureau and other divisions that have drifted away will be sought under plans adopted
Wednesday by the board of directors.

Resignations of Ben S. Barker, executive vice president, after ten years of service, and of J. H. Lambert and Delmar C. Owens, membership secretaries, were accepted by the directors.
Successors to the chamber officials will be named within the next few weeks by the executive committee.

All other employees will be retained, according to Roy LeCraw, who was installed recently as president.

Election of John E. Smith, automobile man, and N. Baxter Maddox, of the First National bank, as vice presidents, were announced. Mr.
Smith succeeds Alva Maxwell, of the Citizens and Southern National bank, who recently was elected treasurer of the chamber. Mr. Maddox succeeds J.
Sherrard Kennedy, of the First National bank, who retains his directorship in the chamber.

Closer Organization Sought.
Plans for bringing the tourist and convention bureau back into the chamber are under way in negotiations with directors of the convention organization and the chamber. Mr. Le-Craw said.

Various functions of the chamber have gradually drifted into separate organizations, such as the convention bureau. Mr. LeCraw said.

"Our plans are to co-ordinate efforts of those striving to help Atlanta, and to simplify the organization system so as to accomplish more and better results with the same money.
Space is available in the Chamber of Commerce building for all of the functions of a chamber, and there is no reason why the money spent for rent by organizations with chamber of commerce functions cannot be saved.
Likewise, duplication of overhead should be reduced."

Mr. LeCraw revealed that the chamber has grown closer to the trade boards and commercial chambers will confer with officials of the local chamber next Wednesday on the subject of rebuilding the organization.

Younger Men Injected.
"Georgia and Atlanta are being hampered all over the nation as a young man's state and town," Mr. LeCraw said. "When they elected me president of the chamber, I told them I was young, being only 35, but they said we need younger men and we would rather have you now than later."

The senior chamber and the junior chamber have grown closer together in the last few years, and the senior body is drafting the younger men. N. Baxter Maddox, a former president of the chamber, is now myself, has been a president of the senior chamber. Horace Russell and George W. West also have gone from the junior chamber to president of the senior body.

"For executive vice president of the chamber, I have a young man, Ross A.
Creekmore, who is entirely familiar with Atlanta conditions and who knows everyone here. . . a man whose interests are tied up with Atlanta and one who is both an executive and a salesman.
Younger men are needed to do the work that is to be done. The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is not any longer the representative of capital, but represents the workers. Those who believe that the chamber is tied up with the trusts and would promote low wages are thinking in terms of 1915, and should wake up and learn what we are doing today."

Plan to "Sell" Atlanta.
The primary effort of the chamber will be to sell Atlanta to Atlantians and get our home folks in-bued with the idea that there is good business here, and that Atlanta can lead

Shot through the head, Ross A.
Creekmore, 38, of 295 Rutledge street, Athens, was found dead in his room on the fourth floor of a downtown hotel Wednesday afternoon, according to police reports.

When his room gave no answer to the maid's knock late Wednesday, she summoned the assistant engineer, L.
D. Head, who with the clerk, John Miller, tried to get an answer from the room. Then they called City Detective H. W. Armstrong and entered the room with an emergency key.

Creekmore was lying in the doorway between the bedroom and the bath room, dressed in his underwear. The bullet, which had gone through his head, was found in the shower bath room.

A check-up by the detective revealed the fact that he had been dead for more than 18 hours, although nobody had heard a shot. His bill at the hotel, which he registered at September 1, was unpaid, and totaled approximately $26.

From Athens it was learned that he was a graduate of the University of Georgia, and had been a football star in 1912 or 1913. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Ann and Eugenia. He was a native of Kentucky.
No notes were found in the room,
and no explanation could be ascertained as to the reason for the act.

'Back-to-the-Farm' Trend Seen in Georgia in 1925-30

Loss in Number of Farms Accounted for by Tenacity From 1920-25, Reports Show.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—In a recapitulation of statistics obtained in the last national enumeration the bureau of census issued a report today showing that while the number of farms in Georgia decreased from 310,732 in 1920 to 249,065 in 1925, a back-to-the-farm trend was noted in 1925-30.

Cut in Marine Corps To Continue Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Reduction of the marine corps from 17,500 to 16,000 men, ordered in June as a money-saving measure, is to be continued through the next fiscal year as well as the present one.

Naval officials said today the recently completed navy department budget for 1932-33 provides for 16,000 marines.

Appropriations for the present year are on a basis of 17,500 but after President Hoover's Republican conference with department officials it was decided to reduce the corps to 16,000 with a view to turning back about $1,000,000 into the treasury.

CASE COMPLETED AGAINST ZACHARY

Bill Being Prepared Charging Woman's Slayer With Murder.

The case against L. Q. Zachary, of 24 1-2 Piedmont avenue, for the murder Tuesday of Mrs. Effie Cook, 33, in her home at 1077 Wylie street, has been completed, according to police, and a bill was being prepared Wednesday by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin's assistants, charging him with the murder, for presentation to the grand jury.

The coroner's jury Tuesday returned a verdict included in which was the finding that Zachary shot to death Mrs. Cook, and recommended that he be held for action of the grand jury. Zachary refused to testify before the coroner's jury, although police say he repeatedly made the statement before them when arrested that he had "done it and was glad of it."

He had stated, according to police, that Mrs. Cook had obtained his World War compensation, his monthly compensation for disablement, his house, and that she had "driven him crazy for six years."

Mrs. Cook is survived by her husband, J. W. Cook, and their 18-year-old daughter, Mary Francis. Funeral services for Mrs. Cook were held Wednesday morning at the Ponders Avenue Baptist church. Interment was in West View.

Zachary is under a suspended sentence of 12 months in Fulton superior court. It was revealed Wednesday, J. W. Cook, husband of the dead woman, went on his bond at the time Zachary was arrested late last year. Zachary was indicted for criminal assault, but pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor.

ALBERTA "DRY SPELL"
RELIEVED BY SNOW
CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 9.—(P)—Snowflakes spread themselves over the foothills of southern Alberta today, ending the forest fire threat and relieving dried streams and rivers where fish had been stranded in little pools by the extremely dry weather. The snow hindered harvesting, but it was welcomed by weary forest fighters.

INTANGIBLES TAX
SOUGHT FOR CITY
White Says Constitutional Amendment Would Cost Atlanta $250,000.

Asserting that Atlanta will lose a minimum of $250,000 a year if its right to tax intangibles is removed by passage of a proposed constitutional amendment giving the state the exclusive right to levy such taxes, Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, announced Wednesday he will carry the matter directly to council at its session September 28.

White said the tax levy, while contemplating a five-mill reduction on real estate, will mean an actual increase in Atlanta's contribution to state expense, which he estimated at 24 per cent of the entire state governmental cost at the present time. His contention followed a communication of city tax assessors to Mayor James L. Key in which the danger of reduced revenue for Atlanta was pointed out.

"Atlanta must do something if possible to prevent passage of this measure," White said. "At the present time Fulton county pays nearly one-fourth of the cost of the state government. If this paper is passed the burden will be even greater. The five-mill tax on intangibles will mean many millions of dollars more will be drained from local citizens, and with the city treasury depleted, assessors will be forced to increase assessments, which will absorb the $250,000 loss annually."

"This will mean that the intangible tax will be just another tax on Fulton county citizens in addition to the load they are now laboring under. However, the same thing will be done in all other municipalities, and those citizens will suffer just as Atlanta and Fulton county residents do, although not to the same extent."

Except from section No. 1 of the proposed amendment: "Taxes realized from intangibles shall be prorated to the state and to the local taxing units in such manner and proportion and by such methods as the general assembly may from time to time provide, but no tax shall be levied or collected on intangible property including money except by the state."

AL SMITH SILENT
ON '32 CANDIDACY
NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(P)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, asked today concerning a published report that he would not be a candidate for the presidency in 1932, emphatically said: "No one is authorized to speak for me."

A Washington dispatch, printed in an afternoon paper, said it had been learned from "persons so close to Mr. Smith as to admit no doubt" that the former governor would not allow his name to go before the 1932 democratic national convention. Mr. Smith, reached by the Associated Press at Canoe Place, Long Island, said he knew nothing about the published story.

"No one is authorized to speak for me," he said with emphasis. "That statement did not come from me. I gave out no announcement. I have no statement to make."

He was told that the copyrighted story, which appeared in the New York Evening Post, said he would make a fight in the democratic convention for a straight-out wet plank and that he favored the honorable proposal of John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee. Although he listened to a reading of that part of the story, Mr. Smith refused to comment further.

He also refused to say anything about another statement in the dispatch to the effect that opponents of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt were backing a new candidate, D. B. Baker, of Ohio, former secretary of war, as their candidate, and were hoping for an open declaration from Mr. Baker of his candidacy.

The Post story said that Mr. Baker will probably begin his active campaign for the candidacy with a speech he is to make before the American Legion in Detroit in two weeks. "Mr. Smith has been cool to the Roosevelt candidacy, but it is not believed that he will openly oppose the present New York governor unless an issue arises between them over prohibition. Mr. Roosevelt, it will be recalled, has been against the Raskob plank."

On this Mr. Smith likewise refused to comment. The Raskob so-called home rule plan provides for retaining federal prohibition only as it applies to states which desire to remain dry. By a referendum of the voters, other states would be allowed to adopt their own methods of liquor control.

Later Mr. Smith telephoned to his New York office: "Nobody has any authority to speak for me. I did not give out any statement and I have nothing to say at this time about events which are still a year away."

know what the future holds for us. This depression is today's problem. The state must act in the emergency to prevent the more dire distress among its own citizens, distress which private agencies admit they are unable to alleviate except in part."

G. O. P. LEADER SUPPORTS
ROOSEVELT RELIEF PLAN
NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(P)—The powerful support of the republican state chairman was placed today behind the unemployment relief proposals presented to the state legislature by New York's democratic governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Although no official announcement was made, it was learned at republican state headquarters here that Chairman W. Kingsland Macy had sent word to Albany that the republican party must avoid any charges of obstructive tactics.

Barring a breach within the republican ranks, such as occurred temporarily over the New York city investigation measure last winter, New York newspapers predicted early passage of the governor's unemployment relief program. This provides for establishment of an emergency commission of three, named by the governor, to administer the contemplated $20,000,000 fund which Roosevelt plans to obtain by increased income taxes.

Dr. John Bauer, Making Survey for City, Will Disclose Figures.

Engineers and experts who have been employed in the case were reporting at the offices of the Georgia public service commission Wednesday preliminary to a resumption of the hearing today on the application of the Atlanta Gas Light and affiliated companies for an increase in rates. Officials of the company, valuation experts and engineers and a consulting expert employed by the commission to make a separate investigation have testified in former hearings. Shortly after these were concluded, the commission granted the city of Atlanta, which is protesting the increase sought, 90 days in which to make another survey and appraisal of the company's property here.

Dr. John J. Bauer, of New York, who was employed by the city to direct the survey, is expected to occupy most of today in disclosing his figures.

Dr. Grant said the club has been organized for the purpose of assisting in investigation of the city government for "graft or malfeasance" and that any evidence of such will be turned over to Solicitor John Boykin. He also said another department, when scrutiny of schools has been completed.

Suspect in Slaying Of Girl Surrenders

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Jack Hartigan, 24, chauffeur, sought since Labor Day for questioning concerning the death of Catherine Cronin, 20, who was found strangled to death in Hartigan's apartment, surrendered to police today.

He was accompanied by Abraham Karp, an attorney, and went immediately to the detective bureau at the police station.

At the detective bureau Hartigan told questioners he and Miss Cronin were to have been married next month on her twenty-first birthday. Karp quoted the young chauffeur as saying that he and several young men and women had been at a party in Greenwich Village early Labor Day morning.

Following the party, Hartigan told Karp they all took a ride up town and their car broke down. Miss Cronin and he took a taxi to Hartigan's apartment, where Hartigan and the taxi driver put the girl to bed.

M'DONALD HOLDS CRISIS WHIP HAND

Prime Minister Presents Drastic Measures for Relief of Britain.

BY FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Drastic measures for national economy by orders in council were presented in the house of commons by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today. With the whip hand in parliament well established, the national government went ahead with its program in steam roller fashion.

A majority of 93 was obtained on resolutions limiting the commons' business to the nation's financial emergency.

Powerless in obstruction, the labor opposition resorted to demonstrations ranging from bitter debate to good-humored horseplay. Verbal clashes flared frequently in a strange mixture of personalities and parties. Arguments became extravagant and laughter and cheers immoderate in an atmosphere of nervous restlessness.

Seymour Cocks, Nottinghamshire labor member, taunted the MacDonald ministers as "the nominees of the money-lenders and shylocks" and as having "surrendered to the gangsters of Wall Street." Somebody called Sir Oswald Mosley a liar and Sir Oswald dared him to go outside and say it again.

Neil MacLean, radical labor member from Glasgow, needed a silk hat, in accordance with the ancient custom, before raising a point of order. Few members of his party wear them, but Mrs. Leah Manning, representing East Islington, passed along her smart little model with two feathers in it. The man on the bench behind placed it on Mr. MacLean's head, but the fiery Scot threw it off indignantly.

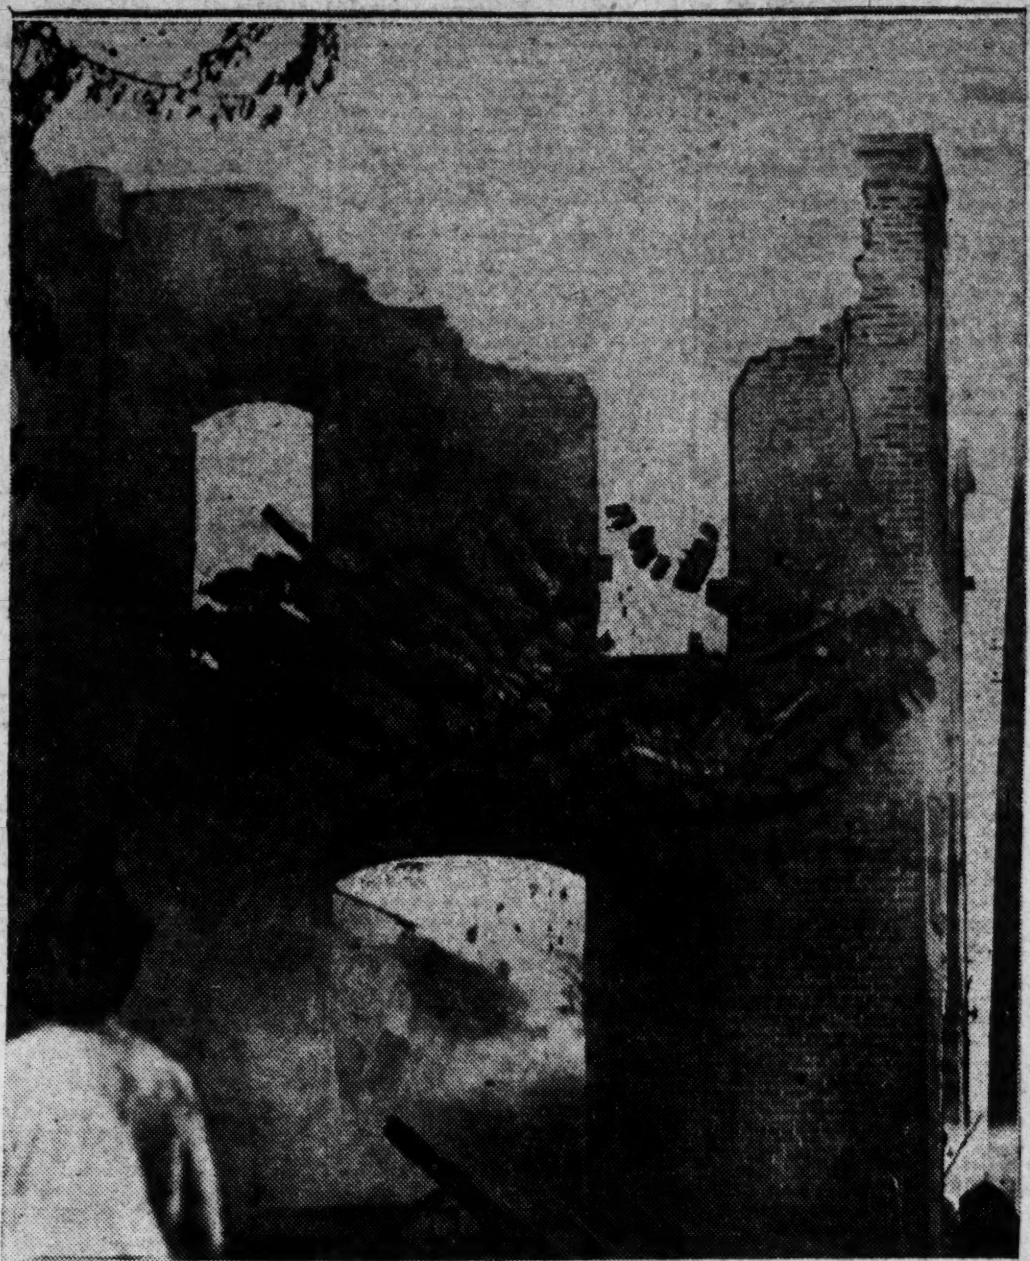

Then the labor members amused themselves by passing the hat around and placing it on the heads of their

This is in the interest of the unemployed stenographers and it is hoped that the business men of Atlanta will endeavor to give the unemployed stenographers at least about ten days work in each month if possible.

This movement is being sponsored by the club headquarters, located at 301 Silver Side, Walnut 2831, Miss G. Manning in charge.

Brick Wall Falls as Oil Plant Is Destroyed by Fire

During the height of the battle in which three companies of Atlanta fire-fighters tried to subdue a stubborn blaze that destroyed the branch office building of the Vegetable Oil Company at 90 Milton street Wednesday afternoon, a section of the wall was hurled to the ground endangering the lives of several firemen. The Constitution photographer arrived just in time to snap this unusual action picture. The blaze caused an estimated damage of $150,000. The fats and greases stored in the company's building added to the fierceness of the conflagration. Staff photo by Sandy Sanders.

unsuspecting colleagues. When Mrs. Manning rescued it, it was in battered condition.

Despite this frivolity, the government moved forward with its program according to schedule. Tomorrow Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden will present his supplementary budget, revealing to individual subjects the share they will shoulder of the nation's new tax burden.

Already the unemployed know they are going to suffer a 10 per cent reduction in the weekly dole of about a pound. Tomorrow the men who ride in limousines will learn what sacrifices the nation demands of them.

The cabinet today gave final consideration to budget measures. Mr. Snowden speaks tomorrow afternoon, but will not reveal the new taxes until after the markets close at 5 p. m. Speculation continued today regarding their exact character. The belief still held that lower incomes would be brought within the scope of the income tax. Increased duties and expected on such commodities as tobacco, beer, wines and spirits, tea, sugar, and gasoline. Provision for $300,000,000 in new taxation is expected. One surprise item may be an increase in the cost of a radio license, now 10 shillings ($2.40) a year. Every owner of a radio in Great Britain must have a license.

Theaters and greyhound racing may also be hit. Resolutions making the new taxes effective immediately will be passed tomorrow night.

In resorting to orders in council for making economy measures effective, the government again indicated its determination to use every weapon in carrying out its program. These orders, like the proclamations of the Tudor monarchs, do not require parliamentary sanction.

They have an odious reputation in British politics, but the new government decided to employ them boldly. Such powers of dictatorial character are the only means for effecting economy measures swiftly.

Prolonged debates, in the opinion of Mr. MacDonald and his cabinet colleagues, would prevent the speedy reestablishment of world confidence in British credit.

The Westminster equivalent of the American filibuster therefore will be blocked by pricy council edicts which will permit only one day's debate on each measure.

While parliament centers its attention on Mr. Snowden's taxation measures the Trades Union Congress, in session in Bristol, will engage in academic discussion of its four alternative proposals put forward to meet the national crisis. These are: (1) To replace the present method of unemployment insurance contributions by a graduated levy on profits, incomes and earnings; (2) new taxation upon fixed interest securities and other unearned incomes; (3) suspension of the sinking fund; (4) consideration of the revenue tariff question.

The government learned today its majority on the vote of confidence last night was 60 instead of 50, one conservative vote having been overlooked.

Georgia out of its economic slump. Atlanta is better sold away from home than at home. The chamber is planning to plow the ground with the expectation that 1932 will be a good year. Atlanta is becoming conscious of a feeling that the slump has done its worst, and that this city is getting on a firm, cash foundation. It certainly is in a healthier financial condition.

The Forward Atlanta Commission has on hand now some 200 concerns waiting a break in the economic situation to locate here. They are interested in Atlanta, and should come here sometime in the near future. The chamber is interested primarily in industrial concerns from the standpoint of attracting new firms to this city.

The chamber realizes that as goes Georgia so goes Atlanta, and we intend giving farm economic problems the proper emphasis in our program.

Committee Members.

Members of the executive committee who are charged with the duty of replacing Mr. Barker, whose resignation takes effect December 1, and Messrs. Lambert and Owens, whose resignations are effective October 1, are: Mr. LeCraw, Mr. Smith, Mr. Maddox, Raymond Kline, a vice president, and Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. LeCraw, following receipt of Barker's resignation, said that the chamber regretted his leaving the organization. He praised his work during his occupancy of the post and said that he left with the good wishes of all members and appreciation for the work he has accomplished.

Mr. Barker's statement followed "I place my resignation in the hands of the board of directors today and my further term of office will be decided by the board."

"I have enjoyed my ten years' work in the Chamber of Commerce, as it has afforded me an opportunity to serve Atlanta and this section. It is needless to say that I wish the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce every success in the near future."

of the reforms championed by Dr. Green several weeks ago as was the anti-trade paper which, he declared, "thwarts the committee rules making a majority vote necessary to secure the party nomination."

Half a dozen aldermen, on which the entire city electorate casts ballots, must be selected from the third, fourth, seventh, eighth, eleventh and twelfth wards, while only one councilman is to be nominated for the post now held by W. C. Jenkins, of the 13th. Education board vacancies which must be filled are the first, second, third and fourth wards. All 52 members of the executive committee must stand for re-election or forfeit their seats.

Because there are only 11 vacancies for which nominations will be made, Dr. Green announced that the committee had voted to raise the fee for executive committee members from $5 to $10 to make up the difference necessary to hold the election. It is estimated that it costs a minimum of $2,500 to hold the primary.

Sub-committee members appointed and the wards they represent follow: Paul Gentry, first; Holmes Joyner, second; A. E. Everett, third; F. A. Hollingsworth, fourth; S. W. Sharp, fifth; Tom E. Ball, sixth; John P. Haunston, seventh; E. M. Rosier, eighth; Fred P. Gibbs, ninth; Tom E. Smith, tenth; S. P. Winburn, eleventh; L. Glenn Dewberry, twelfth; Joe H. Bush, thirteenth, and W. R. Bentley, from city at large.

Powder House Blast Kills 5, Injures 4

BENTON, Ill., Sept. 9.—(UP)—An explosion in the powder house of the Safety Mining Company today killed five men and injured four others.

Ten men were in the one-story frame building manufacturing shells for the blasting of coal when a heater, used to mold shell casings, exploded. It shot out flames, setting fire to the powder-impregnated structure.

Carl Moneyham, 20, and Herbert Smith, 19, were killed instantly by the blast. Joseph Haskins, 21, ran out with clothing aflame, dived into a near-by pond, and died soon thereafter in a hospital. Randall Scarborough, 20, and Marion Otterson, 19, succumbed soon after their injuries.

ANTI-NEPOTISM LAW TESTED IN MISSOURI

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Attorney General Stratton Shartel announced today his office would institute ouster proceedings in the Missouri supreme court against the school directors of Walnut Grove, in Greene county, to test the anti-nepotism section of the Missouri constitution.

Directors there are charged with employing relatives as teachers, which the attorney general's office holds, is violative of the anti-nepotism section.

WALNUT GROVE, Mo., Sept. 9.—(AP)—E. E. Jones, one of the Walnut Grove school board members, resigned yesterday because he had voted for a sister-in-law as a teacher, but the other three members will wait the outcome of the test suit to be instituted in the Missouri supreme court by Attorney General Stratton Shartel, they announced today.

FILIPINOS COOLER TOWARD HURLEY

MANILA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A change in sentiment toward Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley was being manifested today by Philippine newspapers and politicians, who at first received him cordially.

The American-owned Manila Daily Bulletin in relating Hurley's visit to Zamboanga, Mindanao Island, gave big display to a story which said the Moros expressed themselves as opposed to Philippine independence.

Filipinos have always asserted as many Moros favor independence as oppose it, and afternoon editions of the La Vanguardia, which is Filipino-owned, gave equal prominence to a story saying Captain E. B. Whisner, Hurley's acting aide, had barred doors to Moros favoring independence, allowing only those opposing it to see the secretary.

Gains 212% in Telephone orders by systematic use of "Long Distance"

An increase of 212 per cent in telephone orders was recently reported by the McKesson-Groover-Stewart Co., Jacksonville, Fla., one of the largest wholesale druggists in the state. This gain was the result of having salesmen leave a printed card with each retailer, explaining the concern's desire to assist customers by prompt attention to telephone orders.

This firm has problems similar to those faced by most jobbers today. The practice by retailers of buying in small quantities at frequent intervals has made some form of personal contact necessary between salesmen's visits.

F. C. Groover, president of the Jacksonville company, says: "In common with all progressive wholesale houses we are vitally interested in assisting our retail customers to maintain a complete line of merchandise and still avoid over-stocking.

"Successful operation on this basis depends on high-speed distribution. With this in mind, we have worked constantly to reduce the time between the customer's discovery of needed items until they are on his shelf.

"We have found long distance telephone service an invaluable link in this chain of fast distribution, and have recently installed a new telephone system to expedite handling these orders. We are building for the future and naturally seek the most modern and speedy method of serving our customers."

The telephone has been successfully used by many other southern concerns in widely different lines of business. They have found the service quick, convenient and profitable, and a powerful influence toward building business and good will through frequent voice-to-voice contacts.

Perhaps there is a way the telephone can be used to expand your business, too. The plans used by southern concerns in selling by telephone will gladly be explained to you. Call the telephone Business Office.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPT. 10, 1931.

"NOW, WHERE WE ARE AT"

During the thirty months that he has been in the executive office President Hoover has appointed 27 specific "commissions" to aid him in running the government—and now look where they have run it!

It would be a work of supererogation to display a list of those sundry commissions and the jobs they were set to accomplish. The country knows only too well, without running off a news reel, how solemnly those substitutes for self-reliant statesmanship have cluttered up official Washington and barnstormed the country at large. Except in the case of the Wickersham alleged "law enforcement" commission their work has been about as apparent and effective as throwing snowballs into the gulf stream to alleviate a drought in a Kansas summer.

In the case of the Wickersham farce-comedy the people have gotten for their money some 1,600,000 words in a series of "reports" that no one, not even a proof-reader in the government print shop, has read from prospectus to perihelion—and no one ever will read them all. The people of the U. S. A. are not a report-digesting tribe. They do not read their party platforms, as a rule, taking their politics out of the family demijohn of the hip-pocket flask of some moonshining local politician.

The net result of the commission record is to bring the Hoover plan into ridicule, however "noble in purpose" was the experiment. Most of the special scrutinizing bodies have filed their findings and adjourned sine die, to the good ridance of the country. The president ought to welcome their winking out of the picture and get busy with public problems "on his own." His known abilities will serve him better than any sort of commission, for he is really a very able administrator when brave enough to let himself go!

THE COST OF DENUDE HILLS.

A warning for Georgia is to be found in the acute situation faced by California as the result of a water shortage in practically every part of the state.

With its water sources depleted by the disastrous forest fires and lumbering activities which have denuded its mountain ranges during the past few years, it has become necessary for Governor "Rolph" to take definite steps toward the formation of a water conservation plan.

Declaring it an "undebatable question" that the present water problem is of "vital importance to each individual and interest in California," Governor Rolph in a recent proclamation says:

Nearly every section of the state has felt the effect of the water shortage that has come upon us during the long period of drought for the past several years. A real emergency exists. An equitable, constructive and immediate solution of the problem is essential to the future well-being of the state.

Thus is pictured the plight of a state when its water sources are not protected from the inroads of commercial interests or reforested following natural calamities.

The cost in dollars to California, the hills of which before the coming of the white man were covered with virgin forests through which hundreds of streams wended their way to the sea, can be realized from the estimated expense of $175,000,000 to construct the first units of the conservation program now declared necessary.

Similar hundreds of water courses in the east have disappeared as the result of the denuding of our hills of the forests from which innumerable able springs flowed even during periods of long drought. Fortunately this state is still plentifully supplied with water sources, notwithstanding the marked decrease that has taken place during the past half century, but the danger line is being approached. We must give better care to our forests in future or run the danger of finding ourselves in the same condition now faced by California.

"OLE VIRGINIA NEVER TIRES."

The governor of Virginia has sharply directed the attention of the heads of state departments and institutions to the need for the most effectual economies during the present fiscal year. Though the government has been reorganized to accomplish the greatest efficiency with the least waste, nevertheless Virginia, like other states, is feeling the effects of shortened revenue collections.

Taxes have been much reduced and administration in all departments given carefully calculated budget minimums, still the people are finding it onerous to pay their taxes. That causes strict application of what funds are available to the most essential expenses only. Governor Pollard is seeking to avoid the issuance of large volumes of tax bills, to the greater embarrassment and costs to the taxpayers who are in difficulties with their dues to the state.

The governor has the hearty support of former Governor Byrd and the state officials in his determination not to permit state expenses to overrun the available revenues. He expresses his absolute horror of having his administration show a deficit. He gives warning of how other states are oppressed by such deficits and the need for higher taxes. He frankly tells the people that while he is their chief executive the state must be conducted within its income.

That may involve cuts in salary lists and the reduction of some services rendered by the departments and institutions, but the people will be better served in the long run by shortened services rather than higher taxes. His preachment on that line are cogent and timely and deserve to be repeated by the governors of many other states, both for their wisdom and statesmanship.

COFFEE'S SCHOOLS TO OPEN.

Representative Charles E. Stewart, of Coffee county, states that the rural schools of that county will open on October 1, for which he thanks The Constitution for the editorial comment which aroused the people of the county to action.

About a week ago in commenting editorially on the announcement that these schools would remain closed until January 1, The Constitution expressed surprise that this should be necessary in so representative a Georgia county as Coffee.

Now it appears that arrangements have been concluded to open the doors of the schools on October 1, and The Constitution congratulates the good people of Coffee upon escaping the humiliation which would have been theirs had their school houses been closed while those of the counties around them were filled with boys and girls being trained to become better men and women.

No county in Georgia has a better record of development during the past decade than Coffee. While many counties were decreasing in population and the number of farms being operated, it was making a splendid increase.

Under such a condition it would have been inexcusable to deprive the county's young people of the education they have a right to expect, and the school authorities are to be commended for having so adjusted their finances as to make possible the holding of the customary fall term.

Charlie Curtis must decide whether it is his duty to "save Hoover" or save Kansas from the democrats. It is possible he cannot do either.

Governor Pinchot does not plead that Pennsylvania is a pauper state, but that she is as much entitled to help from Uncle Sam as Iowa or Arkansas.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Effects of The Air.

Queer things are happening on the Vincennes aerodrome these days. The participants in the French colonial exhibition are being given "joy rides." Gauls, Bedouins, negroes, negroes, fragile Orientals, robed warriors from north Africa, exotic belles from Indo-China, men and women with skins yellow, brown and black all are flocking to the famous landing ground and showing an interesting variety of reactions to their first experience of flight. Some of these reactions include:

Tattoo by tom-tom players to the god of the aeroplane.

Less appreciative was Mademoiselle Hi Li, one of the little dancers from Cochinchina. She went up for a short flight with Mile. Thi Phi. When the machine raced along the ground to take off there were birdlike cries of delight, and red-tipped fingers clapped excitedly the edges of the cockpit. But when the aeroplane had climbed and turned back over the aerodrome it hit a "bump" or air pocket.

Little Thi Phi laughed with all her white teeth showing. But poor Hi Li pressed her flower-like hands on her eyes. The birdlike cries of the other passengers despite the horrible accident and landed. Later she said she liked flying if only she could keep one foot on the ground.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution by the author.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. Sept. 9.—Back to Hollywood comes Basil Rathbone to play the part vacated by Lawrence Oliver as Pola Negri's leading man. And all this being settled and the famous star ready and fit to begin work perhaps this jinx picture will set on its way.

"A Woman Commands" has been delayed due to Negri's illness. Then due to the elimination of Oliver from the cast. Naming of the new lead brings back to the gelatine colony one of its most brilliant and colorful figures. Basil Rathbone, an actor of rare talent, is Pola Negri's leading man. The picture is a comedy of the length of M-G-M. contract in this place before going back to his first love, the footlights, in an Alfred Saviar play.

The play didn't get over—it was reminiscent of too many other Gallic farces with galling situations. We've ceased to feel naughty when we have met the theater's fulfillment. A lengthy M-G-M. contract in this place before going back to his first love, the footlights, in an Alfred Saviar play.

And as much privacy as a traffic cop at a busy intersection. Gay bathers drop in on everyone all during the long days and dripping sweat from their brows. One is a combination night club hostess and barkeeper at a Malibu colony house. Ronald Colman's preference for quiet is not assumed. But he has had some difficulty in selling the idea of privacy to a village where everyone loves to be tangled up in everyone's business when the camera is very hard to keep in a difficult matter and demands real medical skill.

For that matter, there is only one person to nurse when a child develops chorea, and that is to place the child under the care of your physician, and let the physician attend to the child's heart and his general condition throughout the illness, which, after all, is likely to be soonest mended.

"Getting Somewhere," Says Savannah News About Highways

(From the Savannah News.)

It should be gratifying to all Georgians that the general depression probably will not interfere with the state's comprehensive highway improvement program during the next 18 months, at least. The highway map reproduced in the Morning News Sunday, through the courtesy of The Atlanta Constitution gives a graphic idea of the extent of highway paving Georgia will have in 1933, when the legislature meets again.

Meanwhile progress is being made on the highway from Savannah to Macon. Harvey Granger said a few days ago that all gaps between Savannah and Swainsboro in Emanuel county would be closed up by Christman. Between Swainsboro and Adrian, a distance of about 15 miles, the road is being graded. Beyond Adrian at Scott a stretch of concrete begins and is finished to Dublin. During 1932, Mr. Granger assures, every foot will be paved into Macon.

The program map published in the Morning News Sunday shows that in the next 20 months there will be several main trunk lines across the state, north to south, and east and west, with many major connections reaching into all sections of the state.

After the completion of the main roads shown on the map the secondary roads will have attention and their construction proceeded with, if there is no interference with the allocated road revenues, so that within four or five years from now the ordained system of the state will be nearly finished.

The progress that has been made, together with the hopeful outlook as shown by the map, tends to imply the wisdom and effectiveness of the reorganization of the state highway commission.

radio station and the fliers could have made a forced landing on one of the islands. The fliers were not so lucky and were isolated in some native settlement or fox ranch for weeks or months before being heard from.

Major Federal L. Martin, one of the American route-warrior fliers in 1924, was lost for 11 days after his plane crashed in the fog against a mountain peak on the western end of the island. He was rescued and taken to a cannery equipped with a radio station and sent out word of his rescue.

Weather conditions along the route charted by Moyle and Allen were regarded as good, but the Aleutian tip announced the fliers were in a predicament. Authorities on flying conditions here believed it was likely the fliers were forced down in that region.

TRIP BACKERS PROTECTED BY FLIERS' LAST ACT

TOKYO, Sept. 9.—(P)—One of the last acts of Don Moyle and C. Allen before their last flight was to project non-stop flight to Seattle to provide for reimbursement of their financial backers through an insurance policy in the event they perished.

Just before the takeoff at Saumishiro Beach the American fliers turned over to a friend for dispatch to Los Angeles a certificate of proof of their departure from Japan by airplane.

The certificate, signed by the fliers and by newspaper men who were sent to be sent to the sponsors who had advanced cash to aid the expedition, enabling the backers to recover money in the event of an insurance policy in the event of death.

Moyle and Allen calculated that their adventure here, including a new tail assembly, a super-engine and other parts for restoring the plane, steamship fare and living expenses cost them $14,000.

Health Talks

DON'T PICK ON THE CHILD WITH ST. VITUS' DANCE.

Chorea or St. Vitus' dance is not a nervous condition at all, but an infectious disease. The patient is no more "nervous" than you or I would be if compelled to put up with the many annoyances the chorea patient has to endure.

It is, in my opinion, a serious mistake to regard such a child as a "nervous" child or to pamper the child more than one would if the trouble were, say, bronchitis or measles. Of course, such an invalid child should receive fair consideration and sympathetic care, but in no case should this extend to the deprivation of ordinary pleasures or privileges or other children or members of the household. If you pamper the chorea child in the months the illness usually lasts, you will have a larger trouble after the chorea is over with.

If the illness drags on for a year or two, as it does in not a few cases, the pampering policy spells the ruin of the child, for he is pretty certain to be a difficult person for everybody to get along with for many years if not for the rest of his life.

The most essential remedy for St. Vitus' dance is REST, and parents must have some too much intellectual capacity can scarcely realize how much good REST will do when the child is at its worst and all cure has been tried without benefit.

One of the best ways to give the child with St. Vitus' dance the great benefit of rest is to place the child in bed for a few days. This is not so simple as it may seem. Often it requires all the skill of the physician to secure the child's consent to stay in bed.

For that matter, there is only one person to nurse when a child develops chorea, and that is to place the child under the care of your physician, and let the physician attend to the child's heart and his general condition throughout the illness, which, after all, is likely to be soonest mended.

Coffee County Schools Open Oct. 1; Stewart Thanks The Constitution

(Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

Editor Constitution: I read with much interest and appreciation the editorial in your paper of Saturday, September 5, under caption "Snatching on the Schools."

In behalf of the entire citizenry of this good county I wish to thank you for this editorial. I wish to state further that the county school board has never before been more humiliated than when this report was sent out by a trio in temporary authority announcing the world the school authorities would not open rural schools. Every citizen except this "trio" was shocked and astounded at such an unwarranted and outrageous move on their part.

At a mass meeting of over 500 citizens held immediately after this report was made public, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the county authorities controlling the rural schools of Coffee county have announced that the schools will not open on September 1, but have postponed the opening of the schools until after January 1, 1932. Whereas, if this plan is carried out it will practically deprive the children of the county of attending school for more than two months this school year, and thus deprive them of the educational advantages of each and every child of school age in these communities.

Whereas, this move on the part of our school authorities is unjust, illegal and unwarranted, and if carried out will possibly be the cause of our county losing its educational reputation.

Therefore, be it resolved by the citizens and taxpayers of Coffee county in mass meeting assembled, that we do hereby solemnly and officially protest against the part of our school authorities.

Be it further resolved by this mass meeting that we request the school authorities to immediately meet and rescind the resolution of the county school board which postponed the opening of the rural schools of Coffee county until after January 1, 1932.

Therefore, be it resolved by the citizens and taxpayers of Coffee county in mass meeting assembled, that we do hereby solemnly and officially protest against the part of our school authorities.

Be it further resolved by this mass meeting that we request the school authorities to immediately meet and rescind the resolution of the county school board which postponed the opening of the rural schools of Coffee county until after January 1, 1932.

A Rough Outline of a Creed for The Young Nation Builder

By Robert Quillen

I will, first of all, deal honestly with myself. I will think honestly, accepting facts as they are, without effort to color or evade the truth. If I choose to do evil, for pleasure or profit, I will do it frankly and openly, without pretense that it is good and without effort to hide from the world.

I will honor my body. I will not be foul or degrade or poison it, or do anything to lessen its efficiency or shorten its days of usefulness.

I will honor my country. I will regard the people of other lands as fellow men, having rights equal to mine, and I will recognize the obligation to deal fairly with them; but neither by word or act will I benefit them at the expense of my own people, for whom I owe a people's duty that precedes all other claims. If I can serve my country in no other way, I will support all that is decent and condemn all that is evil, and I will let no other obligation outweigh my duty to vote for the better man in every political contest.

I will honor right, regardless of labels. I will not support an evil or harmful cause that declares itself righteous, nor will I oppose a fair and reasonable thing because it is called wicked. I will approach and study both sides of every moot question with an unbiased mind, and support the one that to me seems right, no matter what name or fame it is given by partisans.

I will recognize my duty to preserve and improve this civilization, which is my heritage, and because the character of mothers determines the worth of a generation, I will honor good women and scorn those who are without virtue and those who cheapen and shame themselves in frank surrender to the lusts of the flesh.

I will honor liberty and prove myself worthy to possess it. I will remember that my rights end where another's begin, and will claim no privilege that does injury to others.

I will recognize the equal rights of all citizens, and will oppose any cause or group that endeavors to benefit one class at the expense of another. Finally, though willing to serve in any way I can, I will not endeavor to reform my fellow citizens until I am quite sure that my own character and way of life afford a perfect example.

PRESIDENT SEEKS COTTON CREDITS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(P)—Depressed cotton looked to the White House for assistance today while the farm board sought negotiations for the sale of surplus wheat.

From the executive mansion came word that President Hoover was conferring with bankers, Eugene Meyer, Texas cotton man; Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, and George R. James, a reserve board member, but only the theme of their conversation has become known.

Just after the White House interest in cotton exports became known today, Chairman Stone said the farm board might plan to ask the next congress for any more money.

He reiterated that the board did not plan to buy any more cotton or wheat. This apparently definitely ended recent speculation on whether the board might attempt stabilization operations in these commodities.

Stone said the board was considering several further wheat deals but he would not discuss any of them nor comment on reports that Germany has offered to buy 200,000 tons.

He also declined to estimate the money the board has left of the $500,000.

He said the board intended to keep in "pretty good financial condition," adding it would undoubtedly need more money than it had in 1929 to purchase any considerable quantities of wheat and cotton.

In view of the farm board attitude, government funds apparently are not involved in the plan for financing cotton exports.

The credit might be arranged through commercial banking organizations with the co-operation of the federal reserve system to enable the grower or exporter of cotton to carry the cotton until foreign buyers paid for it.

Or credit might be established by American banks for the foreign buyer, who would advance the money to the grower or exporter in cash.

This would result in substance in the American grower taking the foreign buyer's acceptance and discounting it at American banks.

At least two of those who participated in the cotton conference had previous experience with

Tobacco-Grading Regulations Sought for Special Session

A. P. Brantley Asks Governor Russell To Include Tobacco Legislation in Call, If Made.

Governor Russell was asked Wednesday by numerous tobacco growers and others interested in its production to include in his call for a special session of the general assembly, in case Texas passes a cotton control law, legislation to regulate the tying and grading of tobacco grown in Georgia.

A. P. Brantley, of Blackshear, known as the "father of the tobacco growing industry in Georgia," wrote the governor that unless such legislation were adopted at the special session, rather than two years hence, there is a very good chance that tobacco growing in Georgia may become extinct.

Recommending the South Carolina law as a model, Mr. Brantley said: "It would do nothing more than compel the growers and warehousemen to market Georgia tobacco in the form in which it is marketed throughout the bright, blue-cured belt except in Georgia, to wit: South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia. More than half of our bright, blue-cured tobacco is exported and the export trade, particularly in the better grades, absolutely refuses to buy our tobacco in the form in which it is offered now, that is, untied. And they give the very good reason that they are not in position to handle it untied, that untied tobacco before it reaches foreign shores is in such shape it cannot be used at all. For years there have been certain of our best grades of untied tobacco sold in Georgia at about one-third of what these same grades would bring in North Carolina, where it is tied."

MRS. ANNIE ALLEN, PIONEER, DIES HERE

Mrs. Annie A. Allen, 89, one of the earliest pioneers of Atlanta, died Wednesday night at her home, 508 Formwalt street, after a continuous residence here of 67 years. Widow of late R. T. Allen Sr., who was a grocer on Capitol avenue from the time the Civil War ended until just before his death, Mrs. Allen came here from Lanette, Ala., just over the state line from West Point.

Among her 35 surviving descendants are two daughters, Mrs. Ida Jones and Miss Daisy Allen, of Atlanta; two sons, R. L. Allen, Oklahoma City, and E. T. Allen, Atlanta; 11 granddaughters, 8 grandsons, 11 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-granddaughter.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes Company, the Rev. Harold Shields officiating.

STORE BLAST BLOWS WOMAN OUT OF BED

A woman was blown out of bed by an explosion of undetermined origin in a grocery store at 801 North Lawn avenue, S. W., Wednesday morning. Mrs. J. A. Ritchie, who lives over the store, operated by T. E. Laughton, said that the blast, which did serious damage to the store and was followed by a fire, threw her on the floor. The flames were quickly extinguished by firemen.

The explosion occurred under the store and ripped away part of the floor. Several customers were uninjured.

Tech High To Hold Sale To Send Band To Yorktown Fete

Tech High school officials Wednesday appealed for old clothing, to assure success of the rummage sale slated for Saturday at the Walker Street school to send the institution's band to the Yorktown sesquicentennial, to which it has been invited. Those wishing to make contributions may notify the school or Robert L. Watson at the Junior Chamber of Commerce building, Walnut 3576.

The trip will assure proper representation of Georgia at the event and will be of immense educational value to band members, officials said in appealing for public support for the project.

COTTON MILL GROUP PLANS TRUCK PARLEY

Action To Be Taken on Proposal for Substitution for Rail Service.

Members of a traffic committee representing cotton mills in Georgia and Alabama will meet in Atlanta "within ten days" to take definite action on a proposal that trucks be substituted for rail transportation in the event proposed increased rates, suspended in Georgia until 1932, are put into effect.

Operators of textile mills, according to C. E. Jones, Birmingham, Ala., executive, who is chairman of the traffic committee, are considering co-operative operation of trucks and also the operation of independent lines.

James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission, said Wednesday that the interstate commerce commission had recently revised the rates applying to factory products moving from Georgia to northern and eastern points upward effective September 9.

"The new rates were much higher," Perry said, "than the present rates and much higher than the rates from the New England manufacturing points to the great marketing centers of the north and, if made effective would practically eliminate the Georgia mills from the northern markets."

"The Georgia public service commission petitioned the interstate commerce commission to suspend the rates and institute an investigation to determine the reasonableness of the rates before allowing them to become effective and this petition has been granted."

All Saints' church, also will attend the session. Bishop Mikell will address the triennial conference of the Order of the Daughters of the King at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

THE GUMPS—SOUP'S ON!

INSTALLMENT X.

For nine years he had been studying the human body—its structure and its functions. Anatomy—all that can be learned from dissection, physiology—all that can be learned concerning the body's vital power, he had delved into the thoroughness of one impassioned to master all available knowledge concerning his chosen profession. But not until tonight had he ever held a specimen of the object of his nine years' study in his arms. How amazing that structure of bones, covered with muscles, should possess this magical something that had made his own body suddenly become fertile! He had been like a dead bird at first lying limp in his hand. But later, like a bird fighting with beating wings, he could feel her fists now striking against his shoulders. Quite ineffectually. He hadn't released her so soon. He wished now he hadn't. It had all come about so quickly, with so little premeditation! His own reaction had been so wholly unexpected, and so amazing. How he had held her arm where he had held it pained! How soft and unarmored the silver shaft he had held close against him! How—Suddenly he was aware of the shrill call of a policeman's whistle! He had passed by a red light.

Thad was buried the next morning under the pine tree by the old carriage-house. Fabia had put out her light at 4 o'clock in the morning after her dance, but before she had given instructions to Joe to meet her at seven. She had run down to the laundry in her pajamas and a kimono, after her mother had killed her good-night. She found Joe still beside Thad. He had fallen asleep, half-sitting, half-lying in a discarded porch armchair. Thad lay beside him upon his blanket. Joe had spread an handkerchief over Thad's head. How kind of Joe! She turned to Joe to awaken him, and ask him to meet her in the morning. Joe to whom she did not seem inappropriate to cover Thad's eyes with his white handkerchief, should alone share with her the last service to be rendered for Thad.

It was not until the morning that Fabia removed the handkerchief. When the pine-bough lined box which Joe had prepared was ready for Thad's body, she leaned and lifted the handkerchief from his head, folding it carefully back into its original creases.

"Thank you, Joe," she said offering it to him.

"Oh, it's not mine, Miss Fabia."

"Not yours? Whose, then?"

"It belongs to the kind young gentleman who was here last night, Miss Fabia."

"Did he leave it by mistake?"

"Oh," she murmured, then, crossing the laundry to a clothes-basket and wiping out all other traces of him. Before she left, she went over to the handkerchief and had looked there, she took it to the window and examined it.

There was no name on it—no monogram—no letter. It was machine-hemstitched, and made of fine linen. She did not toss it back into the basket. She took it upstairs to her room, and laid it in the back of a drawer.

Fabia was waiting for her father in the dining room when he appeared for his usual early breakfast the morning after the dance. The lateness of the party would not interfere with his eighty-third breakfast, she was sure. Few things interfered with her father's habits. The moment he entered the dining room she could see that he was not in a very amiable mood. But Thad's murder ought to be avenged without delay, whatever her father's mood. He might at this very moment be speeding out of reach of punishment.

The dining room was the only room in the house that had resumed a likeness to its normal appearance. Rupert had descended the stairs upon a scene resembling a deserted village after an air-raid. Or a flower garden after a tornado had swept through it.

Grandmother Vale had not returned to her Marlborough street house. Lisa had invited her to spend the night. Nothing interfered with Grandmother Vale's habits either. She also always breakfasted at eight-thirty.

Fabia was not seated at the dining room table, but in the bay-window in the sunshine. There had been only two places laid at the table.

"Come and sit down," Grandmother Vale said to her son, "and see what I found. Look at that, if you please!"—and pointed to an empty oval-shaped bottle set up in front of her. "Not even the decency to remove the label!" It shouted the word "whisky" in red letters. "I used to see bottles of that sort in refuse heaps and ash cans, when I was a girl, but I never thought I'd live to pick up one at my own grandmother's coming-out party."

"Where did you find it, mother?"

"Behind the hangings on the landing. I was looking for cigaret stubs on my way down to breakfast. They were dropped everywhere—right on the floor, just as if the house was a saloon. I found dozens back of the sofa on the landing. I'm glad I went to bed at midnight. It must have worked up into a pretty rough sort of party later."

"Oh, no grandmother," broke in Fabia. "It was a very proper party. Nicholas told mother when he left it wasn't a bit wet."

"I don't understand your language."

"I mean there was very little intoxication."

"Intoxication? Well, I should hope not. Not in my son's house. Do you know what I found hidden underneath my pillow last night? Your mother put me in the bedroom off the west guest-room."

"Grandmother Vale went on, 'where the girls left their things. Somebody must have come into the bedroom before I went to bed. Anyhow, this is what I found under my pillow this morning.'"

She leaned over to the seat of the unoccupied chair at her left and held up something pink.

"Oh, a girly," remarked Fabia calmly. "How surprised the girl must have been to find you were asleep on top of it when she went to get it to go home."

Her grandmother dropped the girly back upon the chair, then drank several cups of coffee, as if for strength before she spoke.

"I've heard of young girls taking off these articles at parties and leaving them in the dressing-room. But that was ten years ago, just after the war. 'Packing their cosies,' Charlotte said it was called. I attributed it to the laxity in morals that always follows every war. I didn't suppose the custom had been kept up."

"One girly under your pillow doesn't make it a custom, grandmother."

"I didn't suppose your mother had included even one girl on her list for your party last night who would do such a cheap, vulgar thing."

"Oh, it isn't cheap and vulgar."

"I should like to inquire," Grandmother Vale went on scathingly, "how the young lady who removed the article kept up her stockings? Or was she so depraved she removed her stockings, too?"

"She may have brought a pair of round garters with her," said Fabia. "I see! Premeditated! Still worse! You seem to know just how it's done. Do you remove your corsets when you go to a dance?"

"Well, I haven't been to many dances yet. But I don't wear girdles at all. I tried to, but I hated them. There's as much difference to me, grandmother, between wearing a girly and not, as between wearing a bathing-suit and not."

Milan Sees Baron Victory If Team Can 'Beat Dizzy Dean'; Jackets Engage in Line Scrimmaging; Bobby Dodd Arrives

MILAN PREDICTS VICTORY IF CLUB CAN BEAT DEAN

Barons Have Hitting Edge on Houston But Trail in Pitching.

By Ralph McGill.

Clyde Milan, who produced the best all club the Southern league has seen in quite a few years, and maybe the best team it has ever seen, is looking forward to the start of the Dixie series with Houston in a hopeful mood. The Birmingham manager sees victory for the Barons if he can get by Dizzy Dean. He believes that his club will hit better, get faster and field more accurately.

The pitching is the big problem. It looks as if the series may be a duel among six pitchers and it all appears that the Houston club has the edge.

"You see," said Milan, "this fellow Dizzy Dean can pitch every day for three days if he wants to. His arm never wears him. And this fellow Payne can pitch often."

"If I pitch Ray Caldwell or Walk-up they have got to have three days of rest before they can work again. DEAN IS BARRIER."

"I figure that if Dean doesn't get an early lead we'll beat him. I know my boys will out-hit him and that we can come from behind. So I am just hoping that we can get by Dean. If we do I believe we'll win. Of course, I think so anyhow, but it will be easier if we get Dean out of there."

Milan admittedly wishes that Scarperry Moore, the fleet centerfielder, were to be in the series. He has French from Little Rock, a good No. 2 man in the batting lineup, but misses Moore just the same.

"We won the pennant with him and it was obvious that he was missed in the games that followed," said Milan. "I promised Scarperry he could leave early to get to his coaching but I won't make any more promises like that. Just imagine what would have been like had we been in a close race and had to lose him."

THE TEXAS HURLERS.

The figures on the Buffs and the Barons show that the Buffs have a pitching edge. Dean has won 27 ball games for the Texans. George Payne, who is a right-hander like Dean, has won 23. Walkup and Hasty are leading the Barons with 20 victories each. Tex Carleton, another Buff right-hander, has won 20. Ray Caldwell, Barons veteran, has captured 17.

Those six pitchers are expected to be the ones to carry the burden in the series. The Texans apparently have an edge but any one of those three Barons pitchers would be difficult to beat with that ball club behind him.

In batting the Barons have an edge. Carey Seldin, at second for the Buffs, is batting .328 to .279 for Billy Bancroft. This is the only Buff hitting more than a Baron. The edge is considerable.

MILAN A COMFORT.

One thing is certain. The Buffs will have no manager on the bench with the baseball engine possessed by Clyde Milan. The Baron manager has handled his team with unusual ability.

Dean is the big barrier. If Milan can inspire the bats of his ball club he should go right along and win. If Dean can be routed his mates on the Buff club won't feel so good about things.

At any rate the Southern association, especially Atlanta, is solidly behind the Barons. They are well interested club that has appeared here this year.

Crackers Swamped By Birmingham, 10-1

Birmingham made a clean sweep of its two-game final series with the Crackers, winning Wednesday night 10 to 1.

Atlanta opens its last home series of the season tonight at 7:30 o'clock in a double-header against New Orleans. Single games will be played Friday night and Saturday afternoon. Ladies will be admitted free at remaining four games.

Wednesday's game was very much a repetition of that of recent dates. Bob Hasty kept six Crackers hits well scattered, no two coming in the same inning. The lone Atlanta run was obtained through hit walks and Chapman's two-base hit. He struck out eight batters.

Birmingham secured 15 hits, stole six bases and otherwise made the Crackers look bad, particularly in the infield. Four Crackers errors aided in the Barons scoring.

Johnny Morrison worked hard and struck out six batters.

Southern tennis made its exit from the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills Wednesday afternoon.

It wasn't a quiet exit, all Dixie entries putting up stiff fights before being eliminated.

And the amazing thing about it is that four southern players should have gone to the fourth round of the national tournament before meeting defeat. Why, it wasn't very many years ago that tennis was considered a namby-pamby sort of game, and the boy who had a court in his back yard was just a sissy.

A section which has but one tennis professional engaged in teaching has managed to produce four men who are real factors in national competition. Southern tennis, alone and unaided, is making masterful progress. As soon as the clubs and the colleges begin to encourage it, as they do golf, even better results will be obtained.

There is something rather exciting about the play of the boys in the tournament Wednesday. Bryan Grant, 1930 clay courts champion from Atlanta, lost to Johnny Doeg, national champion, in a four-set match. Robert (Lefty) Bryan, Vanderbilt University, lost a four-set match to Berkeley Bell, once of Texas, now of New York. Teddy Burwell, of Sewanee University, lost to Frank Bowden, and Cliff Cutler, New Orleans, was defeated by Fred Perry, English star. All of them put up mighty battles.

The showing of southern tennis was easily the best in its history. Bryan Grant won his third round match from the French veteran, Brugnon. Bryan beat G. P. Hughes, English star, who had won victories this season over Cochet and Lott. The others also made excellent showings.

National tennis rankings of the southern players may not be any higher this year. Grant and Sutter did not win as many of the smaller tournaments as they did last season.

But in the national at Forest Hills the players came back strong. The whole outlook for southern tennis is distinctly encouraging.

BARNES JOINS TILDEN TOURS.

Bruce Barnes, No. 19 in the 1931 tennis rankings, joined Tilden Tennis Tours, Inc., Wednesday. The Texas star cast in his lot with the professionals after losing to Shields in the national.

Barnes thus becomes one of the Tilden troupe, which now consists of the Maestro, Emmett Pare, who appears in the Tilden tennis movies this week; Albert Burke, the European professional, and Frank Hunter, one-time No. 2 in the national ranking.

The Tilden troupe will invade Europe next season. By that time Mons. Jacques Curley, who now controls the wrestling in New York, hopes to have Henri Cochet, world's ranking tennis player, in the list.

Professional tennis made enormous strides with Tilden as its leader this year. Next season should find it more firmly established. And in time the open tennis tournaments will come along.

What a pity it is they can't be held next year to see what Tilden could do.

And how such an opportunity would inspire him!

PETE AFTER "THEES JEEM."

Peter Sauer, one of your greater athletes, will meet Jim Londos, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, September 17 for the title.

Once Pete Sauer had a draw with him. Twice he lost in matches that went well over an hour.

"I hope I can get him this time," said Sauer, as he clutched his bathrobe closer about him and waited for the first match to finish here Tuesday night.

"I almost had him once. He is a great wrestler, one of the greatest the game ever had. But I hope I can land him this time. At any rate, I am going to shoot the works against Jim. I'd like to appear in Atlanta as champion."

Sauer thinks that wrestling will hold up as long as the crowds get the good matches they are seeing now. "The game is on the level," said Pete. "No crooked game could survive as long as wrestling has."

CHARLEY MOORE MOVES IN.

Those reports that have been flitting here and there that Charley Moore, 1930 manager of Macon and this year pilot at Hartford, would replace Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, gained some foothold Tuesday.

The Brooklyn club moved Moore in along with some of his players, one of them being Bob Parham, former Tech and Cracker star.

Moore is pretty sure to be the manager in 1932 or certainly in 1933. There is no reason why Moore, though with no major league experience, should not be a success in the majors. Joe McCarthy came from Louisville with no experience at all, and has been a decided success in the major circuits.

OUT AT TECH.

Out at Tech, where the boys donned headgears yesterday and went to work in light scrimmage, this story was told.

A few years ago the Tech football team had, as every team does, one boy who was dumber than usual. The squad stopped in Washington and Coach Alexander took the boys to see the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. He told them the story. He had them bare their heads in the presence of the nation's greatest tomb.

"Coach," spoke up the boy who asked those dumb questions, "who is the unknown soldier?"

THAT NEW BALL.

The Yankee ball club did most of its heavy hitting Wednesday in the game with the Giants when the supposedly "deader" National league ball was in use. Does that prove anything?

BOBBY DODD CHECKS IN.

Out at the Flats Wednesday the boys were working with passes. The receivers were throwing them too far or too short.

Bobby Dodd, backfield coach, had just arrived. He hadn't thrown a football all year. He stepped in to toss one by way of illustration. The ball sailed straight into the arms of the receiver.

There will be many a moment this fall when Major Bob Neyland will put his head in his hands and moan because Bobby Dodd is gone.

BRYAN GRANT BEATEN BY DOEG AT FOREST HILLS

South's Hopes Vanish as Sutter, Bryan and Burwell Also Bow.

By Gayle Talbot.

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9. (AP)—After two days of dizzy reversals of form, the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills settled down today and moved prosaically into the quarter-finals without an upset.

The eight players who survived were naturals, even though a pair of them, Berkeley Bell and Frank Bowden, both of New York City, were not seeded in the draw. They did their spectacular work on previous days, and were not seriously extended.

Completing the upper bracket with Bell and Bowden were Ellsworth Vines, the lazy-looking lad from Pasadena, and Frederick J. Perry, British Davis cup star. Coming through in the lower half were Johnny Doeg, of Newark, the defending champion; Frank Shields, of New York, and the two Philadelphians, George Lott Jr. and Johnny Van Ryn.

SHIELDS EXTENDED.

Shields, Davis cup singles and second ranking player in the United States, had the closest scrape of the day. He was extended to the limit in subduing Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, national intercollegiate champion, in five sets, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Both players were exhausted in the grueling match that lasted more than two hours under a hot sun. Gledhill, serving with terrific speed and matching Shields in the prolonged rallies, held the score even in the deciding set until each had won three games.

Then, apparently realizing for the first time how close he was to beating the great Shields, he seemed to get down over so slightly, and the New Yorker broke through his service the one time necessary to insure victory.

Doeg, who encounters Shields in what promises to be the feature of tomorrow's round, had too much experience and stamina for Bryan Grant Jr., of Atlanta, beating him, 6-0, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. The champion, playing well within himself, let the diminutive southerner run himself down in winning the second set, then swept him aside.

SERVICE WEAKENS.

Lack of an adequate service hurt Grant's chances against Doeg. The lad had all the shots the champion possessed once a rally was under way, but his weak delivery was as nothing compared to the sizzling service he had to try to return. He seldom got his first serve over the net, and as a result was forced to drop over an easy second ball, then Doeg charged in, slam it, and then take away the ball. Once there, he was a barrier Grant could not get past. Not once in the final two sets could the Atlanta hold his service.

Grant proved in the second set he was a match for any player who would stay back and play "freeze out" with him. Doeg, smiling good-naturedly and taking it easy, apparently was content on running his diminutive opponent ragged. His tactics finally lost him the set, but they won him the match.

Grant went for everything, tearing about at top speed and doing all sorts of acrobatics. Frequently he sprang on the turf, trying to reach one of Doeg's shots. He had no left when the second set was over.

DOEG STORMS NET.

Again taking to the net in the third set, the giant Newark star dominated the play, forcing Grant into repeated errors, and easily ran out the match with the loss of only three games.

Following is the point score:

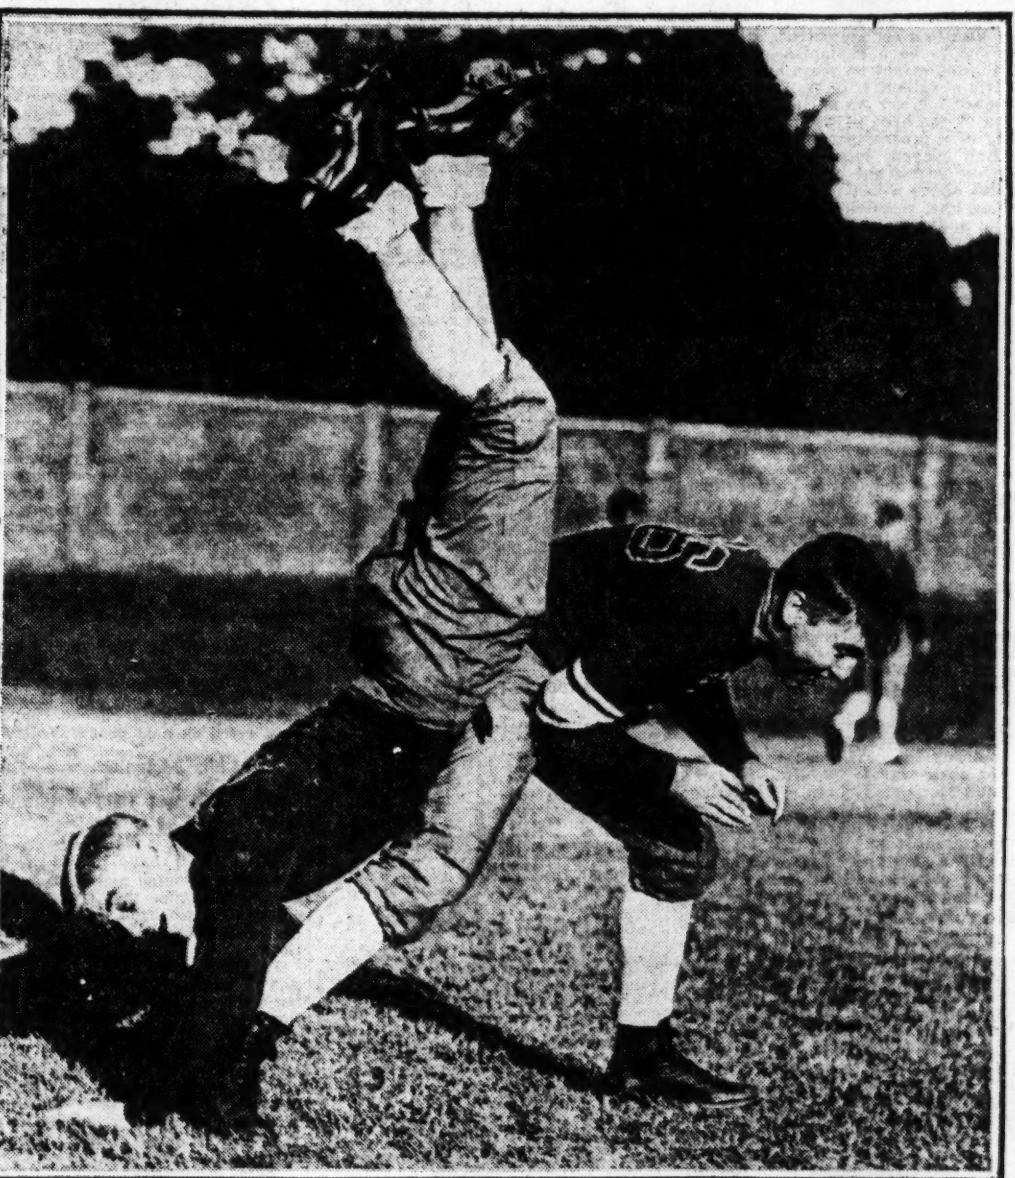

First set:	Doeg	4-6	4-6	4-6
Second set:	Doeg	6-0	4-6	6-2
Third set:	Doeg	6-0	4-6	6-2
Fourth set:	Doeg	4-6	4-6	4-6
Fifth set:	Doeg	6-4	4-6	4-6

Another of the southern delegates, Cliff Cutler, of New York, gave an erratic exhibition in losing to Perry, last of the foreign stars, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. In previous matches a "Davy" Miller, the referee, started his own war in the final set, but he settled down sufficiently to take the next three with ease.

George Lott Jr. continued to play

Just a Little Fun!

R. H. (Bob) Tharpe, Tech tackle, who is shown here apparently trying to stand on his hands, has been knocked that way by Clint Ezell in a little blocking practice they had at the Flats Wednesday. The tempo is getting faster each day out there.

WOOD GRIEVED OVER CHARGES

American Refutes Statements Involving Admission of Trickery.

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The 1931 Harnsworth trophy race passed into history today, but reverberations over the international event continued.

Kay Don, British challenger, whose Miss England II was removed yesterday from the bottom of the Detroit river after it capsized Monday at a turn, took the boat to the line ahead of the gun, with resultant disqualification of both boats. Wood was quoted yesterday in Detroit newspapers as saying he had planned the false start and "everything worked out according to my plans."

Wood today declared there had been "a misunderstanding," and said he did not lure Don over the starting line, but that his determination to get away ahead of Don led him to "jump the gun," the British challenger following him.

Whether Miss America VIII, piloted by George Wood, brother of Gar, which yesterday circled the course after having finished third in Sunday's heat and after having finished the second heat alone, will be declared winner of the race probably will not be decided by the now scattered international racing commission for several weeks.

Don today was awarded the Weyhing trophy for the fastest lap in the race—93.017 miles an hour—made in Sunday's heat. Gar Wood was the first to offer congratulations after the ceremony.

Loughran Winner Over Jack Gross

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight, who has often said he can whip any fighter in the country, earned a 10-round decision from Jack Gross, Salem (N. J.) brawler, tonight in the feature of an outdoor heavyweight card. It was their third meeting.

Although Loughran won every round, Gross was the aggressor throughout. Both fighters raveled at a furious clip. Gross started his attack with a left which time and again he attempted to land without great success. After four stanzas he shifted to a right lead, but still found he could not reach the former light-heavyweight champion as he liked.

The personal feeling which was manifested after the second meeting in Philadelphia in tonight's encounter, following the spring meeting, the battlers nearly clashed in the Gross dressing room.

GIANTS BUY ENGLISH.

DURHAM, N. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Gilbert English, third baseman for the Durham club of the Piedmont league, who was sold to the New York Giants several weeks ago, today was ordered to report to Manager John McGraw in Cincinnati Sunday.

Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from the first district of Illinois, will address the women's division of the National Baptist convention at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Wheat Street Baptist church in the interests of the National Training School for Women and Girls, Washington, D. C. It was announced Wednesday as the 51st annual session got under way at the city auditorium.

More than 6,000 attended the opening session called to order by L. K. Williams, president. The Rev. D. V. Jamison, president of the Alabama state convention, the Rev. R. B. Bentley, of California, conducted the worship period.

Welcome exercises were held with the Rev. E. A. Pinkston, president of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Union, presiding. Luke Arnold, executive secretary to Mayor James L. Key, extended an official welcome to the delegates. The Rev. R. W. Riley, pastor of the Reed Street Baptist church, and the Rev. Ellis A. Fuller, on behalf of the white Baptists of Atlanta, Others who spoke were the Rev. D. D. Crawford, Bishop W. A. Fountain, of the A. M. E. church of Georgia, and A. T. Watkins, attorney and president of the local branch of the N. A. A. C. P.

The Rev. M. L. Sheppard, of Pennsylvania, responded to the welcome. The Rev. E. W. Perry, Oklahoma, delivered the annual convention sermon, on the topic, "The Quest of the Age."

President Williams urged the convention to go on record concerning the substantiality to the National Relief Fund, a dollar being asked from each member of the convention. The Rev. R. M. Caver, of Ohio, presided at the memorial hour when the Rev. W. A. Sandefur, of Tennessee, preached a memorial sermon.

At the Wednesday night session, which was purely educational in nature, addresses were made by Rev. O. L. Hailey, of Tennessee, and Rev. J. L. Hailey, of Mississippi, and an educational session was presided over by Rev. W. A. Epps, of New Jersey. The women's convention, an auxiliary, is holding separate sessions at the Wheat Street church, Auburn avenue and Yonge street, with S. W. Layton presiding. Mrs. W. J. Neal extended a welcome on behalf of white southern Baptist women. Addresses were delivered by Sarah Fisher Brown, Pearl Reese, W. F. McKinney, Cora Lee Finley, Mary L. Dickerson, Mattie Morris and Annie H. Burroughs.

Today's program of the convention will include inspirational addresses and reports from officers and departments. President Williams will deliver his annual address at the close of the morning session, and officers will be elected at the afternoon session.

Music is being furnished to the convention by the Thousand Voice Chorus under the direction of George R. Garner. A special service will be held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The meetings are open to the public.

Mary Tenenbaum Named President Of Women Lawyers

New officers were installed by the Georgia Women Lawyers' Association at its monthly meeting Tuesday night at the Henry Grady hotel. Miss Mary Tenenbaum is the new president. Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, was the guest of honor, and the assembly was entertained by pupils from the La Fontaine School of Dancing.

The association, which is the only one of its kind in the south, was organized in 1920 by Mrs. M. A. Hale, its first president, and Miss Mary Tenenbaum, Mrs. Howell, who made a short talk, said that the entrance of women into the legal profession was not new, and cited the Shakespearean play in which Portia outwitted Shylock. He commended the women for gaining recognition at the Georgia bar.

The newly installed officers and those who attended the dinner are: Miss Tenenbaum, president; Miss Estelle Turner, vice president; Miss Frances Maddox, recording secretary; Miss Molly Warnock, treasurer; Mrs. Marie C. Anderson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. M. A. Hale, Mrs. J. M. Johnson, Mrs. L. E. Largent, Miss Margaret Acree, Mrs. Kate D. Colson and Miss Lily Scheek.

CHINA PROTESTS MEXICAN ORDER

HONGKONG, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the insurgent south China government at Canton, announced today he had called to the Mexican government a protest against the order expelling Chinese from the Mexican states of Sonora and Sinaloa as "an act of barbarism."

Chen announced, the note stated, the expulsion of the Chinese, all of whom are Cantonese, has "no parallel in modern times."

"As a revolution," it added, "of the abuse of state power and lack of restraint and responsibility on the part of high authorities it may well be likened to the pogroms against the Jews under czarism and the dark deeds of Abdul the Damned against the oppressed races of the Ottoman empire."

COTTON COVERING URGED FOR WHEAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—In a letter to Chairman Stone, of the federal farm board, Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, today strongly urged the use of cotton covering for all shipments of wheat the board sells to Brazil, China and other countries. The use of cotton material as covering or containers for the wheat would give an added market for certain grades of cotton, the Georgia senator declared.

Neither Miss McCormick nor Major Hubbard, nor any of their friends could be located tonight.

No license has been issued yet to Major Hubbard and Miss McCormick.

The couple will have to procure, under Maine law, a waiver of the five-day period between issuance of the license and performance of the ceremony from the municipal court judge of the district. In many cases this is a mere formality. If a license has been procured elsewhere, the couple may be married immediately.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED TO FAMILY OF MURIEL

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The engagement of Muriel McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Harold F. McCormick, to Elisha D. Hubbard, of Middletown, Conn., was announced today.

The marriage, which will bring together two families of wealth, both prominent in the early development of Chicago, was announced to—and not by—the prospective bride's family.

Like her sister, Mathilde, and her brother, Fowler, the heiress selected her future husband and then informed her relatives. The announcement was given the press by Mrs. McCormick's secretary. Mrs. McCormick received a letter from Muriel telling of her intentions, the secretary said, but no details as to the date or place of the wedding were given.

Fowler McCormick, who recently was wed to the former Mrs. Anna U. Stillman, said he was not acquainted with Hubbard. Mrs. McCormick's secretary said Muriel met Hubbard at Bar Harbor, Maine.

Muriel is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCormick, who were di-voiced in 1921. Her father, an executive of the International Harvester Company, later married Ganna Walska, singer. Her mother is the daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Hubbard is a descendant of Elijah Hubbard, pioneer, Chicagoan, who later moved to Middletown. He was president of the Maxim Silencer Company.

Muriel has figured many times in the news. She became estranged from her father when the latter married Mme. Walska and for some time ignored her mother at social functions.

After the estrangement she was chaperoned by Mrs. George A. McKinnick and once publicly announced she had "met" the latter's dead son, George Jr., in a spiritualistic seance. She proclaimed George Jr. her "spiritualistic bridegroom."

The youth was killed in the World War. She had never met him in life, but after the proclamation wore a wedding ring. The announcement caused her mother's earlier statements of recalling a "ghost" existence among the Pharaohs to pale materially.

Muriel lived most of her first 18 years in Europe. She lived with Mrs. McKinnick until 1928 and then went to Rochester, N. Y., to study music.

It was often reported that she planned to enter motion pictures. She took the stage in 1922 under the name of Nawanna Minor. Only last April she managed a miniature theater in West Palm Beach, Fla., and planned the role of Mona Lisa in the premiere of "The Face."

She is an accomplished yachtswoman and her boat, Aquila, once won several "society" races.

HUBBARD IS MEMBER OF PROMINENT FAMILY

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Elisha Dyer Hubbard, 50, whose engagement to Muriel McCormick, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, was announced today, is a member of an old and socially prominent Connecticut family.

For many years he has lived a quiet and rather secluded life on his small estate in the Westfield section of Middletown, which he calls Lone Tree Farm. Except for his butler, he lives alone.

Hubbard, a son of the late Elisha Kent Hubbard, a pioneer of Chicago, served on the staff of Governor John H. Trumbull with the rank of major. He is extremely interested in military affairs. His chief interest locally is in the Middletown Service Men's Union.

During the World War he served overseas with the Yale unit.

Hubbard has never been married. Friends said he is about 50 years old.

He is the brother of E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, and an official of the New England council. Another brother, Louis de Koven Hubbard, also resides here.

Charge Dropped.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A charge of disorderly conduct against Walter Derocet, of Denver, Colo., preferred yesterday by Andrew J. Harris, foster father of Mildred Pace, a niece of Derocet, when Derocet visited the Harris home, was dismissed today in juvenile and domestic relations court. Judge J. Hogericks warned Derocet not to go to the Harris home again and Derocet said he was leaving Richmond.

Bebe, Ben Are Proud Parents of Daughter

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Barbara Bebe Daniels Lyon, weight 5 pounds 14 ounces, was born today to Ben Lyon and his wife, Bebe Daniels, featured film players.

"We are very happy and proud," said Lyon. "Both Bebe and Barbara are getting along fine."

Miss Daniels was given an extension in her motion picture contract to prepare for Barbara's arrival.

REVIVAL IS REPORTED IN WORLD CONFIDENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The department of commerce reported today that the establishment of the recent credit to Great Britain and the announced intention of the new government to balance the budget "has revived confidence somewhat."

Its weekly review explained, however, that basic change has occurred in the British situation.

The review said no signs of a general recovery were shown in other sections of the world.

Continuing its discussion of the British situation, the department said unemployment, however, has continued to increase and the only industrial betterment is a slight gain in shipbuilding.

"No sign of recovery has appeared in the Irish Free State."

"Industries in Italy remain dull, but the enactment of an extensive program of public works for the winter gives hope of some reduction of unemployment."

Czechoslovakia continues to show good resistance to the general crisis and unemployment has shown some what more than a seasonal decline.

"Crop harvesting has progressed satisfactorily in Canada and there has been some improvement in the wholesale trade in Ontario."

"Newfoundland fisheries continue to report unsatisfactory prices. Newspaper production, however, remains above rated capacity."

"The situation in Venezuela remains dull and restriction of petroleum production activities is maintained."

"Low prices for sugar and cacao have greatly restricted activities in the Dominican Republic."

"Small retail business in Japan is suffering heavily from the depression."

"Although changes in actual business are slight in India, a better feeling has been observable during the past two weeks."

The new wool season opened in Australia with prices 5 to 10 per cent lower than closing prices last season and although continental demand was light, prices remained steady."

ALLEGED BANDITS TAKEN IN MARYLAND

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Three men in jail here today were said by police to be responsible for a bank robbery at Greenfield, Tenn., and another just across the line in Kentucky, besides several hold-ups throughout western Maryland.

The men, who gave their names as Lee R. Green, 37, and Orville Green, 29, brothers, Cleveland; Toule Fowler, 24, of Newport, Tenn., denied all connection with the bank robberies and other crimes when they were arrested last night at the Hagerstown Fair Grounds by Captain J. J. Cassidy, of the Hagerstown police force.

2 NEGROES JAILED IN MANGUM DEATH

Both Booked on "Suspicion," and Held for Further Questioning.

Two negroes were arrested Wednesday by city detectives for questioning in connection with the slaying of C. Wheeler Mangum in his office at the Model Laundry last Thursday night, according to detectives.

Nathaniel Jackson, 26, of 137 Grape street, was taken into custody late Wednesday afternoon by Detective Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant and Detectives E. W. Ginn and D. L. Taylor. Will Nelson, 33, of 313 Conally street, was arrested Wednesday morning by Sturdivant and Ginn.

Both negroes are booked on "suspicion." Nelson has been absent from his usual haunts following the slaying, and is held for questioning in the belief that he may be able to throw some light on the slayer's identity, detectives said.

Witnesses living near the laundry told police that they saw a negro run from the office just after the shot was fired. Mr. Mangum walked into the office to put up his clubs after a game of golf and detectives believe that he stepped into an ambush, although the motive has not been determined.

AUTOMOBILE VICTIM SUCCUMBS TO HURTS

J. B. Learmont, 48, of 85 West Peachtree place, who was struck by an automobile while walking across Piedmont avenue at Fifth street, died at Grady hospital Wednesday night. He had received a multiple fracture of the skull, internal injuries and a broken leg.

H. H. Hamrick, driver of the machine, told police that Learmont walked into his path and that the accident was unavoidable, but he was charged with reckless driving.

Surviving Mr. Learmont are his mother, Mrs. Hannah Learmont; one sister, Mrs. C. R. Goza, and three nephews, Jack Roberts and Claud and Virgil Goza. Awtrey & Lowndes Company will announce the funeral arrangements when completed.

JUDGE AWARDS GROSS CUSTODY OF 2 CHILDREN

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Superior Judge Joseph B. Davis today signed a modified decree divorcing Captain Christian Channing Gross, attached to the American legation in Canada, from Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of a former governor general of the Philippines.

The decree, requested by Captain Gross, granted him custody of two children, Peter, 8, and Barbara, 6, and named him as the father of Mrs. Gross' third child, Anna, 3, the cause of the suit. The court did not determine custody of Anna, who is in France with her mother, because of lack of jurisdiction, but it enjoined Mrs. Gross from attempting to obtain legal custody of Anna in Illinois until the child is within their jurisdiction.

ROME, Ga., Sept. 9.—The wedding of Miss Mildred Joye Wilkerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wilkerson, and Colonel Homer Edward Moyer, of Jacksonville, Fla., formerly of Johnston, S. C., was solemnized Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, at the First Methodist church, the pastor, the Rev. L. Wilkie Collins, performing the ceremony before a small company of friends and relatives.

Garlands of smilax entwined the chancel and choir rails and palms and ferns flanked the altar forming a background of green, relieved by wrought-iron pedestals holding white and pink gladioli. Seven branched candelabra held cathedral tapers and tiers of waxen tapers burned in the choir loft, and the light of countless tapers flooded the church.

Mrs. W. O. Tarpley, organist, played Mendelssohn's wedding march as a prelude to the ceremony, and during the ceremony Schubert's "Serenade" was played. Mrs. Paul Nixon sang as a solo, "All for You," and Mrs. Edward Schoen, of Green Cove Springs, Fla., sang "At Dawning" before the ceremony.

Miss Isabel Wilkerson, maid of honor, wore an aquamarine blue tulle gown, made empire, the short puffed sleeves and round low neckline being distinctive features of the gown. A pink and blue tulle girdle and pink slippers and pink gloves completed her costume, and she carried Jersey Beauty dahlias tied with pink and rose tulle.

The bridegroom and his best man, Captain Malbourne Angier, of Green Cove Springs, were attended by their aides, Cadet Major J. Blume and Cadet Captain C. Blume. Acting as ushers were Auburn Moyer, William H. Wilkerson, of Atlanta; Eddie McGirt, of Darlington, S. C.; and Edward Schoen, Green Cove Springs, Fla., and Gordon Watson, Rome.

Lovely Bride.
The bride, whose beauty is of the blonde type, wore a severely plain white satin gown fashioned semi-empire. The full skirt touched the floor, and her veil of rose point lace and tulle was worn cap effect, and touched the floor in the back. Her flowers were bride's roses, showered with lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkerson, of Athens, Ga., were the bride's parents, entertained with an informal reception following the ceremony. Dahlias and asters were used in decoration of parlors and in the dining room, and white dahlias and gladioli reflected the nuptial colors, green and white, and assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Gordon, of Cartersville; Miss Helen Wilkerson, of Atlanta; Miss Katherine Wilkerson, Miss Margaret Wilkerson, Miss Joe Cone, Miss Katherine Caperton, Miss Dixie McConnell, Miss Margaret Bryson.

Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs Chosen President of Women Voters

Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs has been chosen by the Atlanta League of Women Voters' board to act as president of the organization for the remainder of this year due to the resignation of this office by Mrs. Harry L. Greene, who will be free to devote her efforts entirely on the administrative side of league work. Since the league voted at its annual meeting under the leadership of Mrs. Greene to reorganize the forces of a more complete separation of administrative and legislative functions the board has been outlining council manager principles of government and applying them to the league operation.

Mrs. Jacobs is well qualified to assume the unexpired office of Mrs. Greene. She has been affiliated with the Atlanta league as well as the state organization of Women Voters for a number of years. In her contact work for the local league Mrs. Jacobs has rendered valuable service and as president she will continue her contact work and concentrate on the membership work for the remainder of the year. Mrs. Jacobs has prominently identified herself with the Cause and Cure of War undertaking, having been chairman of the Georgia committee. As chairman of International Co-operation to Prevent War for the Georgia League of Women Voters, Mrs. Jacobs has manifested keen interest in this part of the state's program. She possesses unusual executive ability and is a woman of broad vision and international viewpoint.

Mrs. Ada Woolfolk will act as chairman of the board for the local league and preside over the board meetings, which will be held weekly during September to plan an active fall program. The stimulation of membership will be the first activity undertaken this fall. Two hundred members in the league agreed in January to secure two members each during the year. This work will be completed before any other activity is assumed, according to Mrs. Jacobs. Squads have been formed with many experienced members of the league for this work. Heads of squads are Mrs. Emmett Quinn, Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, Mrs. T. M. Stubbs, Mrs. M. L. Shatzen, Mrs. J. Morgan Smith, Mrs. Horace Rhorer, Miss Katherine Koch, Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs, Mrs. J. W. Wills, Mrs. J. O. Sanders and Mrs. Margaret Hamlett.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Brilliantly Plus Accuracy Pays

Quite frequently in Contract a situation arises where only one unusual distribution of the cards will permit the making of the contract. In such cases an expert player discounts the factor of probability and hopes that Fate has been kind to him. The issue is distinctly up to the kindness of Fortune, although even Fortune should be aided in every possible way to be- side his favors where they are most needed.

The hand given below gave Sam Fry Jr., one of the rising young players of New York, who promises soon to take his place in the expert ranks, an opportunity to play both brilliantly and accurately in the recent team-of-four contest for possession of the city of Asbury Park challenge trophy. The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
1♥ Pass 3♥(1) Pass
4♥(2) Pass Pass Pass

1-In support of South's bid of one heart, North can count 4-1-2 playing tricks, including 2 tricks for the heart length and honors. 1 trick for the club Ace, 1-2 trick for the spade King and 1 trick for the shortness in the spade suit. There is, in addition, the uncounted value of the diamond Queen, which in the play proved the determining factor in the making of game.

2-With North's strong support for the heart bid, South, who has 1-2 honor-trick more than required, and additional length in trumps bids for game—a justified risk.

In the play West opened his fourth best spade. East won with the Ace and shifted to the club Queen. Mr. Fry wisely permitted his opponents to hold the first club in order to prevent West from getting the lead. When East's Queen of clubs held the first trick, he continued that suit and the Ace of clubs in the North hand won. Now the three outstanding trumps were drawn, the King of spades cashed in the North hand and the last club in the Dummy trumped in the closed hand. South then led his last spade from his own hand and trumped in the Dummy, returning to his own hand with a trump lead in order that he might make the play upon which game depended. If West held the diamond King, the game was safe but if the cards had been so distributed that East held the K Q 10 of diamonds, he must be prevented from advantageously leading any other suit than diamonds after winning the first diamond trick. Mr. Fry led the 9 of diamonds. West, of course, did not cover because he had no card higher in that suit. A low diamond was played from the Dummy hand and East won with the 10. Whatever play he now chose must give South his contract. As a matter of fact, East elected to return a diamond and this was permitted to run to the Queen in the Dummy. The twelfth trick was won with the diamond Ace and the last trick with a trump.

Thus by careful play from the beginning of the hand, South was able to make his contract. Seeing all the cards, the play does not appear difficult and, as a matter of fact, an Opening contract would have defeated the contract but there are few players who will choose for a blind lead the top of a three-card suit headed by the eight spot, which offers neither the possibility of establishing a

Morningside Presbyterians Entertain for Rev. and Mrs. McMurry This Evening

Members of Morningside Presbyterian church will entertain at a reception this evening at 8 o'clock in the church parlors at Morningside and Highland avenues in honor of the pastor, Rev. Carl W. C., prior to her marriage in June.

A program of harp music under the direction of Mrs. Margie Griffith will be rendered by the ensemble, including Mesdames R. P. Grau, J. R. Keenan, Jr., Burnham Marsh and Ringer Hornsby, and selections will be played by Mrs. A. B. Andrews, church pianist.

Receiving with Rev. and Mrs. McMurry will be Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schanck, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Carmaine, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Rusk, Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barabson, Miss Virginia Whitehead and William Beckman, representing the different departments of the church work; Friends of Rev. and Mrs. McMurry and the congregation are extended invitation to attend the reception.

TODAY'S POINTER

In the Forcing System, practically the same honor strength is shown by the Opening suit bids as by the Opening notrump. The chief difference is that the honor strength might be concentrated largely in the bid suit, while in notrump the definite inference of distributed honor strength in an evenly balanced hand is conveyed, rendering it, as a rule, stronger defensively.

It follows that practically the same minimum and Forcing responses apply to Opening notrump bids as to the Opening suit bids. One must keep in mind, however, that bare 2-1-2 honor-trick notrump bids are rare and that, when vulnerable, the notrump promises at least 3 honor-tricks. Consequently, the minimum given for the Regulation and Forcing responses can be slightly shaded.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD from the menace of dirty handkerchiefs

When school starts give them KLEENEX disposable tissues

SCHOOL starts soon—start now to guard against colds and other epidemics!

One protection you can give your child is Kleenex disposable tissues instead of handkerchiefs.

Kleenex tissues are soft, dainty squares to use and destroy. Absolutely safe, sanitary. Compare the cleanly Kleenex way with the old-time handkerchief, which tests show may contain literally millions of germs!

Children particularly need Kleenex because they are so careless and because they contract nose and throat infections so readily. Supply your child today with Kleenex... teach him to use each tissue once and then destroy.

Children prefer Kleenex

Children prefer Kleenex, once they try it. Made of cellulose, it's softer than any handkerchief. And nearly twice as absorbent—thus preventing irritation. Each tissue that touches the face is fresh, clean, completely sanitary.

And with Kleenex there's never any trouble over lost

DISEASE GERMS

Bacteriological tests show that handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain the following organisms: Staphylococci (pus germs), Streptococci, Pneumococci and Catarrhals.

Many uses

There's nothing like Kleenex for saving your time and temper a dozen times a day. For wiping spectacles; for dusting or polishing; for applying medicines; for minor bandages; for wiping razor blades... these are but a few of the many important uses for Kleenex. And don't forget that Kleenex is declared the safest, most efficient way of removing face creams by those experienced in skin care. Its superior absorbency is needed to remove all impurities from the pores. All drug, dry goods and department stores sell Kleenex.

A Despondent Young Girl

SHE looks despondent, listless. Young girls budding into womanhood often get quiet, wistful and they should be watched.

During this "trying time" every young girl needs the helpful benefit of a strengthening medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mother, won't you give your daughter the Vegetable Compound? Records show that it helps 98 out of every 100 women who use it. Ask your druggist for a bottle of the liquid or the convenient tablets.

MRS. TWITCHTAIL GETS EVEN.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Another's fault pass lightly over.
Let them may even up the score.
—Twitchtail the Squirrel.

Twitchtail the Ground Squirrel had been badly upset by the fight he had received when he had thought that Mrs. Twitchtail had been killed and carried away by an automobile as she was crossing a motor highway, and he couldn't get over it. As he followed her in quest of a new home he had a lot to say.

"Why didn't you look before crossing that place?" he demanded. "It was just luck and nothing more that you were not killed by that monster. Even a youngster just starting out in the Great World would know enough to look this way and that way before crossing an open place like that. Certainly you are old enough to know better. You must be crazy."

Mrs. Twitchtail said nothing. There was really nothing to say. She had been careless and she knew it. Had she looked she would have seen that automobile coming and would have waited. She had had even more of a fright than had Twitchtail, for the car had passed right over her, but she didn't remind Twitchtail of this. She tried to pretend that she didn't hear him, but all the time she was having hard work to hold her temper. Her chance came sooner than she had dared hope it would. They had come to a rocky hillside. There were all sorts of holes and crevices among the rocks and Twitchtail became quite excited.

"We'll never find a better place for a home!" he cried as he ran about exploring the various openings.

Mrs. Twitchtail noticed that he wasn't stopping to smell at the entrance to each hole or crack in the rocks, but ran into first one and then another in the most heedless manner. However, she said nothing, but she, on her part, took care never to enter a place until her nose told her that no one else had been there lately. She was taking no chances.

Suddenly she heard a cry of fright above her and looking up saw Twitchtail pop out of a hole in the rocks, running as she seldom had seen him run before. His eyes were as if they might pop right out of his head. An instant later another head appeared at the opening and the heart of Mrs.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

If I should receive one letter from a divorced person, or from one contemplating divorce (for any but statutory grounds), a letter that breathed peace and contentment, I might not be so rabid on the subject of divorce. But all the weight of the evidence that comes to my desk is against divorce. This search for happiness that goads men and women to forget their vows, to ignore the claims of duty, to throw off the yokes that seem to burden them and to rush around frantically in a futile search for a new yoke, that they fancy will be less heavy and one that they fancy will distribute the weight more evenly on their necks, seldom gets them what they go after. They are always a little tired when the search is over. They are greatly disillusioned. They cannot rest even if they are weary. They cannot complain even if they are disappointed. They exercised their free will and they made their choice and they must abide by it.

Dr. Collins in his very practical book called "The Doctor Looks at Life and Love," says that most people enter into marriage expecting the other party to furnish nine-tenths of the happiness sought. But he thinks the ratio should be reversed and that every one should enter marriage expecting to supply nine-tenths and look to the other party for the one-tenth. Isn't he right? And wouldn't that simple resolve on the part of every man and woman who enters marriage alter the tragic consequences of many a mating?

The case of the man I quote below is not an unusual one. It is clear cut and it is typical. This man is saying what a woman said only recently in this column. The two letters make a reversible rug, with the same pattern on both sides. Either way you turn it you see the same thing, either way you turn it there are the same lights and shadows, principally shadows. It's a melancholy motif that predominates. But hear him and see for yourself.

"My wife and I have had during our married life, several misunderstandings after each of which she has gone to her family. The last time she left I begged her to come back to me but she only laughed and said I should have lived in 1730 instead of 1930. Month after month passed in which I was in hell, dragged there by her and her parents and friends. She asked a separation and I agreed. Then she asked a divorce and I agreed and filed suit. As soon as she got the legal separation she began to go around with a man and soon after that with several men.

"In the meantime, feeling that I had lost out, and that everything was over between us, I engaged myself to a wonderful little girl. I assured her that I would never go back to my wife. She worships the ground I walk on. Now my wife, having had her fling, writes to me and begs me to withdraw the divorce. She says she has learned her lesson, that she adores me and would live with me in a swamp. She claims that both her parents and she have seen the mistake they made. I have tried to forget my wife but I have not succeeded. I am in such a mixup that I worry day and night. I feel that my head is being pressed in. What can I do? I can see only one way out. It is to break the little girl's heart and take my wife back. To do that I would be yellow to the bone. I have tried to make her hate me but no matter what I do to her I am perfect."

We do hate to gouge out the splinters that fester in our flesh. We hate it so much that we get another if we do the gouging. It seems to hurt less if another does it. This splinter has worked deep and the operation to extract it is painful and no matter how skillfully it is done there will be a scar. The person who is responsible for putting the splinter in won't suffer as much as the victim but let us never forget that when one does wrong in this life one suffers in this life and nobody knows that as well as the person who has done wrong.

Of course the wife must be taken back. She should be taken back on two grounds. One, that her husband loves her and wants to take her back, the other, that they are still married, and not divorced. The consequences to outsiders are deplorable but there is justice in them.

Twitchtail seemed to flop right over from that place Mrs. Twitchtail had said. "Of all stupid things, you did the stupidest," said she. "You are old enough to know better than to run right into a tree so hard that he was knocked sprawling. In a flash he had rolled over and once more was racing for his life.

Shadow the Weasel came no farther than the entrance. He grinned and then lazily yawned. He had been taking a nap when Twitchtail came blundering in, and because he had already dined heartily he was not hungry and so not inclined to give chase, which was well for Twitchtail.

A small cream pitcher is handy to fill the thermos bottle with hot coffee. The average cream pitcher holds half a pint (one cup) of liquid, so that you can measure the beverage accurately and add cream and sugar to taste.
